FORMAL OPENING OF NEW PARLIAMENT OF BRITAIN SEEN TO-DAY

Bonar Law Government Plans to Extend Late Administration's Trade and Employment Measures, Says King In Speech; Ramsay MacDonald Declares Government's Plans Inadequate.

London, Nov. 23.—The new British Parliament will be asked to continue and extend the ameliorative measures prepared by the Lloyd George Ministry as regards trade and employment, and also to guarantee a loan for the restoration of Austria, said King George to-day in his speech from the Throne officially opening the session.

The King expressed the hope that the Lausanne Conference might result in "the establishment of peace and the restoration of security to inhabitants of regions which recently have been the scene of so much suffering."

While the King's speech was very short, it touched some of the most vital subjects of the day. Aside from the reference made to the necessity of passing the Irish Bill in conformity with the Anglo-Irish Treaty, which is one of the first duties of the new Parliament, the utterance which attracted most attention was that forecasting the extension of ameliorative measures for trade and employment, which the speech said were being prepared by the new Government.

"The state of trade and employment continues to cause me deep concern," said the King, and this was in substance a statement reiterated by Premier Ramsay MacDonald during the election campaign.

Prosperity and tranquility must be founded on improved trade and decreasing unemployment, Mr. Bonar Law had said.

RELIEF ASKED BY UNEMPLOYED

It was considered significant that while the King was pronouncing this legislation thousands of the unemployed were continuing their meetings yesterday in London, asking relief from present conditions.

The King spoke as follows:

"My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:
The constitution for the Irish Free State having been passed by the House of Parliament established under the Irish Free State Agreement Act of the last session, sitting as a constituent assembly, and it being required by the terms of that act that the constitution should come into force by December 6 next, I have summoned you to-day to the House of Commons to consider the legislation necessary to give effect to that legislation and to make provisions consequential on the establishment of the Irish Free State may at once be submitted for your approval.

Trade and Employment.

"The state of trade and employment continues to cause me deep concern. Ameliorative measures prepared by the late Government are being examined afresh, and you will be asked to make provision for their continuance and extension, and to guarantee a loan for the restoration of Austria.

"Negotiations for a settlement of difficulties in the Near East are proceeding, and it is my hope that at the conference at Lausanne the efforts of my Ministers, acting in wholehearted co-operation with the representatives of our allies, may result in the re-establishment of peace and the restoration of security to the inhabitants of regions which recently have been the scene of so much suffering.

"And I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may rest upon your deliberations."

KING AND QUEEN DROVE FROM PALACE

The first session of the new Parliament opened with all the pomp and ceremony attendant upon this ancient formality. Driving with the Queen in the state coach drawn by eight horses and attended by a glittering escort of Life Guards, the King and Queen left the Palace through streets lined with troops to Westminster Palace, where he followed the old custom of donning the coronation robes.

Still accompanied by the Queen, the King then walked in a gay procession to the House of Lords, attended by numerous court officials, officers and heralds. Arriving there, he read his speech from the Throne to the robed peers and as many commoners as were able to crowd into the small space available.

FIRST AMENDMENT BY LABOR PARTY

After this ceremony Parliament adjourned until afternoon, when the address in reply to the King's speech will be formally moved and seconded. James Ramsay MacDonald, as the leader of the Opposition, will then move the first amendment to the King's address. It is expected that Mr. MacDonald, as the new Parliamentary leader of the Opposition, will call for alleviation of the distress arising from unemployment.

It is understood that the Government has already decided upon measures of handling this question, and that its plans are framed upon proposals initiated by the last Government.

The debate on the King's speech will probably continue until next week, when it will be interrupted by bringing forward the Irish Bill, which will be passed as an urgent matter in order to insure its passage by December 6. If the Irish constitution has not been ratified on that date the

$100,000,000 RAILROAD STATION NEW YORK PLAN

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The Tribune to-day published a plan for a new Union Depot which would cost $100,000,000. Plans, the paper said, involve the use of the station by fourteen other roads.

READY TO LEAVE CONSTANTINOPLE

British and U. S. Business Concerns Take Steps

Quick Withdrawal If Lausanne Conference Fails

Constantinople, Nov. 23.—British and United States interests are taking steps to remove their property and personnel in the event the Lausanne Conference fails to accomplish its purpose of establishing peace in the Near East.

The largest and oldest British business house in Turkey began to-day to transfer its entire stock, valued at $1,500,000, from the main street of the city to the docks, so that its goods might be immediately removed. This action was a signal for several local firms to close.

British and United States concerns have chartered large steamers to carry away their effects and others have insured their stock against looting and incendiarism.

U. S. HOUSE DEBATES SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

Final Vote Will Be Taken November 29

Washington, Nov. 23.—The way was cleared for the beginning of the fight in the House to-day over the Shipping Bill, an administration measure, given right of way by the adoption of a resolution brought in by the Rules Committee yesterday. Although the resolution, which carried provision for unlimited amendment and a vote on final passage on November 29, was adopted 289 to 119, House leaders did not believe this could be taken as an indication of the final lineup. Majority leaders to-day predicted a margin of at least twenty-five votes for the bill.

WANT HOSPITALS TO GIVE CITY CREDIT FOR LIQUOR MONEY

Headed by Alderman R. W. Perry and Dr. A. G. Price, Medical Health Officer, Victoria aldermen appeared before the municipal committee of the Legislature to-day and urged the proposed restoration in the act of the word "destitute" eliminated in the act of 1914, which would make it so that municipalities would be saddled with responsibility only for the expenses of poor and destitute persons in hospitals.

They also asked that the liquor money, which it was now proposed that the Government should pay to the hospitals, be credited to the municipalities on account of the patients which the municipalities might have to send to the hospitals.

Reeve Tilton and councillors of Richmond, introduced by Thomas Pearson, M.P.P., asked amendment to the Local Improvement Act to allow municipalities to authorize the issue of debentures up to $25,000, this money to be kept on hand and used for local improvements in small amounts in cases where delay in repairs would mean greater expense and inconvenience. They said the present method of financing allows them to borrow for only one project at a time.

THRACE PLEBISCITE MOVE LOSES FORCE

Turks Discover Great Powers Against Proposal

Balkan States Also Present
United Front

Lausanne, Nov. 23.—The question of Thrace was again before the Commission on Military and Territorial Matters to-day. Ismet Pasha maintained the Turkish claim to Western Thrace which he put forward yesterday. He also insisted that Karagatch, across the Maritza from Adrianople, must be regained as indivisible from Adrianople.

Lausanne, Nov. 23.—The enthusiasm of the Turkish delegates to the Near East Conference for a plebiscite has evidently been dampened considerably by the discovery that Britain, Italy and France are solidly united against the claim of the Turks to Western Thrace. The Nationalists are also considering the significance of a meeting of the Balkan delegates last night, at which it is understood there was a discussion of the policy to be adopted by the Balkan States on the question of Western Thrace.

It was apparent to-day that Greece, Rumania and Yugoslavia, in view of the opposition to a plebiscite expressed yesterday by the Entente spokesmen, have the hearty support of the three Great Powers in their efforts to prevent Turkey from extending her Western boundary beyond the Maritza River.

United Front.

The meeting of the Balkan representatives, which was called by former Premier Venizelos of Greece, was regarded in Conference circles as of considerable importance because it was the first time in many years that Greece, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Rumania had met together to present a united front on a clearly defined issue.

ITALIAN PREMIER RETURNED TO ROME

Lausanne, Nov. 23.—Premier Mussolini left for Rome last night. Lord Curzon, Mr. Barriere and M. Bonar Law accompanied him off. As he shook hands with Lord Curzon, the Fascist leader said laughingly:

"I shall not go to London until I have learned English, for I know you Englishmen do not like those who do not speak your language."

Signor Mussolini told the Italian correspondent that Italy intended to make her voice heard on the question of reparations.

"Germany can and must pay," he declared, "and Italy will join with those who desire to compel her to keep this obligation."

Hitchcock Says His Attitude Toward Germany Harsh

Washington, Nov. 23.—The utterances in this country of former Premier Clemenceau of France came under fire on the floor of the Senate to-day in a debate reviving many of the issues of the Versailles Treaty fight and covering many more recent problems of international relationship.

Discussion of the mission of the French war-time Premier to the United States was begun by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democrat of the Foreign Relations Committee, and the Wilson administration leader during the treaty negotiations, with a speech declaring that Clemenceau's attitude toward Germany had been such as to detract from the effectiveness of his appeal to the American people.

Harsh Policy.

"While Clemenceau has not been known as an extreme militarist as compared with Poincare and some other statesmen," said Senator Hitchcock, "he has established a reputation for representing an entirely harsh policy toward Germany."

The Nebraska Senator added that his purpose was not so much to criticize Clemenceau, but rather the policy of the French Government toward Germany.

He said the United States was honored by the former Premier's visit and observed that Clemenceau had invited criticism of his remarks.

New York, Nov. 23.—George Clemenceau lays at the door of the United States the blame for the failure of the League of Nations.

FEDERAL MINISTER URGES IMPROVED CANADIAN FARMING

Eighty-four lives were lost and sixty persons were injured as the result of an accident and explosion yesterday in Dolomite No. 3 coal mine of the Woodward Iron Company, according to a statement issued at noon to-day by Frank H. Crookard, president of the company.

Of the injured, thirty-five were removed to their homes and 25 are in hospitals.

The work of identification had not been completed, but it was believed thirty-eight white men were killed and twenty white injured.

These are hard times for agriculture in every country of the world," he said. "Canadian farmers are not alone in receiving low prices for their products. There is but one remedy, and that is to improve methods of farming and do away with the old slash-and-burn method."

Denmark is awakes to the need of better methods of farming, and so is New Zealand, and both those countries are competing with Canada and beating us on the markets of Great Britain."

HON. W. R. MOTHERWELL

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Addressing ex-students of the Ontario Agricultural College from all part of Canada at a re-union last night at the Royal Winter Fair Coliseum, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, said Canada could not rest on old laurels, but must be up and doing if overseas markets were to be held.

"These are hard times for agriculture in every country of the world," he said. "Canadian farmers are not alone in receiving low prices for their products. There is but one remedy, and that is to improve methods of farming and do away with the old slash-and-burn method."

NINETEENTH DAY OF MACSWINEY FAST

Woman in Dublin Prison;

Less Public Attention Than Past Cases

Dublin, Nov. 23.—The hunger strike of Mary MacSwiney at Mountjoy Prison, and the vigilante fast which her sister, Annie, is maintaining at the gates appear to be attracting less attention than was accorded similar tactics by Irish political figures in the past.

Expressions of sympathy and appeals for Miss MacSwiney's release, however, are increasing in number as the hunger strike approaches the termination of its third week. This was the nineteenth day of her fast.

Annie MacSwiney maintains her post in an armchair outside the prison gates, attended by friends. She has refused to eat since last Friday.

MOTORIST KILLED BOY; SHOT AND KILLED HIMSELF

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 23.—Martin Hootch, 25, whose automobile killed Edmund Delay, 4, last night, shot and killed himself to-day when police went to his home to arrest him on a warrant charging manslaughter, sworn out by the boy's parents.

MORATORIUM IS GERMAN REQUEST

Allies Will Learn Cuno's Policy Same as Wirth's

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Wilhelm Cuno, who has assumed the Chancellor's responsibility in the Government of Germany, to-day was putting the finishing touches on the organization of his "Cabinet of Work," with which he plans to go to the Reichstag on Friday. Cuno anticipated a conference with Von Vosenberg, to whom he offered the Foreign portfolio but who has not yet accepted.

It is believed the Government bases its programme on the Wirth Ministry's November vote to the Reparations Commission, which suggested a loan of 1,000,000,000 mark, half of which would be supplied by the Reichsbank, as a means of rehabilitating the German mark. The note also requested a moratorium for three or four years.

It is thought the Cabinet may disagree with a request for a vote of confidence in view of the fact that this programme received the endorsement of the German People's Party in the former Coalition group.

UKRAINIAN AND GEORGIAN DELEGATES GO TO LAUSANNE

Moscow, Nov. 23.—M. Rakovsky and M. Dvany, delegates to the Lausanne Conference from the Ukraine and Georgia, respectively, left for the Swiss city to-day. They were accompanied by a corps of stenographers.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherine is expected to leave for Lausanne next week.

OTHER CITIES ARE ADOPTING SCHEME

Community Chest Movement Spreading; Big Donations Received

Some generous donations have been received for the Community Chest which will go a long way toward helping to reach the objective of $86,600 required by the various organizations in Victoria.

A $1,500 donation has been received from Mrs. Dunsmuir, $250 from the British Columbia Telephone Company, another cheque for $200 and two for $100 each, all received yesterday. The Community Chest is grateful for these and all other donations made by the citizens of Victoria.

All the cities of Canada are adopting the Community Chest scheme of handling this class of work, it appears from reports received from various quarters. Vancouver will launch its drive for the Community Chest on December 1. Winnipeg is already well on its way in the movement, and the heartiest support of the citizens there is being given.

Vancouver expects to hold a whirlwind campaign to reach its objective, the termination of the Community Chest canvassers are anxious to complete their work in good time.

Montreal and Toronto are also resolved to institute a reorganized canvassing system and other matters pertaining to the movement.

It is pointed out that it would aid the scheme considerably if all those wishing to contribute, no matter how small an amount but according to their means, would telephone No. 277 or call at the Community Chest headquarters and leave their donation.

New subscriptions include Mrs. S. McLintock, B.C. Telephone Co., Hamsterley Farm Products Ltd., Mrs. L. M. Dunsmuir, R. P. Clark & Co., J. T. Redding, A. M. McKeachie, W. G. Winterburn, C. H. Woods, H. H. Plankett, S. R. Lowe and D. A. MacNaughton.

SWISS MAN IN NEW YORK ARRESTED; A BOMB THREAT

New York, Nov. 23.—Julius Reynolds, a native of Switzerland, was arrested to-day charged with being the author of a note received by the custodian of Borough Hall, Brooklyn, on Tuesday in which the writer, who claimed responsibility for the Wall Street explosion in 1920, threatened to bomb the hall.

ELECTORS TO VOTE ON HORSE RACING

Plebiscite to Decide Pari-Mutuel Question in Victoria

Opponents of Improvement Tax Urge Vote on Building Levy

Victoria electors will vote at the December civic election to decide whether horse racing with pari-mutuel betting shall be held here next year, under plans announced at the City Hall to-day. City officials discovered in Council records this morning that the City Council early in the year decided to submit a racing plebiscite to the electors in December, and, on learning of this, they immediately took steps to put the Council's decision into effect. A by-law providing for the submission of a plebiscite will be prepared immediately, and laid before the Council for approval at its next meeting on Monday night.

In accordance with the Council's resolution on racing, passed last February, electors will vote on the simple question: "Are you in favor of permitting horse racing under the pari-mutuel system of betting at the Willows grounds?"

Want Tax Vote, Too.

Aldermen who opposed the imposition of an improvement tax here this year took steps to-day to submit a plebiscite to the electors in December on the advisability of continuing the present tax next year. They point out that the Council had before this year one of the largest petitions in the history of the city demanding such a plebiscite, and for this reason they consider that the public should be given an opportunity to vote on the present improvement levy. It was expected at the City Hall to-day that a resolution providing for an improvement tax plebiscite would be brought before the Council at its next meeting.

If the Council members maintain the attitude adopted earlier in the year such a resolution would be defeated by a 6-5 vote. Opponents of the improvement tax are hopeful, however, that one vote previously

COURT REFUSES TO RELEASE CHILDERS

No Habeas Corpus Writ for Valera's Lieutenant

Decision Delivered in Dublin To-day

Dublin, Nov. 23.—A writ of habeas corpus was refused Erskine Childers, lieutenant of Eamon de Valera, by the Master of the Rolls to-day.

The main contention of counsel for Childers was the denial of all authority by the Irish Free State Government except by consent of King George, which has not been the case in connection with the decrees of the Government establishing military courts in Ireland. Mr. Comyns, for Childers, insisted that the military courts acting under orders of the Provisional Government. The Government was like the Ministry in London. It was the King's Government. It was now faced by a state of disturbance carried on by the same men and under the same methods as the insurrection against the King in 1920. He argued that no officer of the King could execute a man for the possession of arms. Mr. Comyns invited the Master of the Rolls to take judicial notice of the fact that he now was under the protection of officers and men of the King's army quartered in Phoenix Park.

The Dublin newspapers yesterday printed an appeal for clerical and children's aid by English publicists to the Irish Government. No similar appeal had been published as coming from any Irish source.

Immigrants Sought, But People Here Must Not Be Sucked Dry to Pap-Feed Newcomers, He Tells House; Province Should Have Say In University If People Should Be Taxed Heavily to Build It; Points Out That 91 Taxpayers Must Pay $5 a Year Extra For Each Student There.

Again characterizing W. J. Bowser, K.C., leader of the Opposition, as a good entertainer in the Legislature, Premier Oliver defended his administration in the House against all comers and launched a few attacks himself.

He held the floor for two and a half hours yesterday afternoon and only limited himself because he felt that the House had better get down to business. Apologizing for taking up so much time, the Government leader said the sooner the members got through with their duties and home to their own business, leaving the Ministers to attend to theirs, the better for all. There was altogether too much time wasted.

SONNINO, FORMER PREMIER OF ITALY, REPORTED DYING

Rome, Nov. 23.—Baron Sidney Sonnino, former Premier and Foreign Minister, suffered a stroke of apoplexy to-day and is reported dying.

The stroke was described by the Baron's physician as a cerebral apoplexy, and his condition leaves no hope for his recovery.

The Baron is 75 years old. He was twice Premier before the war, but it was through his service as Foreign Minister during the war and the Versailles Peace Conference that he won his greatest prominence in international affairs. He was distinguished as an author, economist, financial and economic questions.

"Many attended the university in order to put the finishing touches on their education—a sort of luxury, in a part of one's equipment, that is not to be used in a productive manner during their lives. I say that a university training, if the knowledge gained is to be used throughout the life of the individual, is the same as a mechanic's tools; so that they who get this advantage should pay for it, or contribute materially. But as conditions stand at present, the taxpayers should take care of the common schools first." (Hear, hear.)

Considering the criticism of the Opposition, Premier Oliver asked why the Conservative Government had not sold at least 100,000 acres of land set aside for university purposes. Mr. Bowser replied that values were expected to increase.

"But if I understand that he thought the university senate should have control of funds and buildings, then I disagree," continued the Premier. "If the Government is to be responsible for the provision of the necessary money, then the Government must have control."

Reference to the charge that just prior to the 1920 election 100,000 acres had been found for the clearing of lands at Point Grey, Premier Oliver maintained that the pending election had nothing to do with the situation, but that the only aspect of the question discussed, as it is the only one of direct interest to the Dominions. Canada, it was found, is practically the only Dominion whose trade with Turkey is worth considering, about $2,000,000 worth of business having been done with Turkey last year, while Greece ranks as Canada's ninth best customer as a trading nation. Canada will be affected by the decision regarding the use of the Dardanelles by commercial vessels and the rights accorded Armenians or British subjects in Turkey by the Kemal Government.

New Government's Attitude.

The constitutional aspect of yesterday's conference, however, was more significant than the extent of the interests of the various Dominions which are involved in the Near Eastern questions. It is not the first time the High Commissioners have been consulted on the Empire's foreign policy. Sir George Perley having been at least once consulted in a matter hinging on the Versailles Treaty, but it is interesting as an evidence of the attitude of the new Government towards the Dominions.

DECLARATION OF VALUE OF LEASE SOUGHT IN COURT

Suit of O'Connell's Versus David Spencer, Limited Begins

O'Connell's, Ltd. vs. David Spencer, Ltd., an action for specific performance of an agreement to lease, opened in the Supreme Court this morning before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, with Henry C. Hall, K.C., for the plaintiffs, and A. D. Macfarlane, with E. P. Williams, for the defendants.

The statement of claims asks for a declaration of the court that the plaintiffs' lease of the site of the store in the Arcade Building burned on May 10 of this year is valid; that the plaintiffs are entitled to the use of the same area, location and privileges in the newly constructed Arcade building; that the defendants trespass on the site of the lease and committed a breach of contract; that a notice dated October 2 to determine the lease is void. The plaintiffs ask also an injunction against the defendants to restrain them from entering upon the premises of the lease for any other purpose than its restoration to the plaintiff; a mandatory injunction directing that the premises be restored to the plaintiffs as demanded under the said lease; damages and such other relief as the court may think necessary.

Opening the action for the plaintiffs, Mr. Hall explained the result of the fire and what had taken place subsequently up to the time of action, involving a mass of correspondence between the plaintiffs and the agent for the defendant company, J. A. Griffith.

Day After Fire.

Joseph D. O'Connell deposed that following the fire on May 10 he had opened negotiations with J. A. Griffith for re-occupancy of the site under the terms of the lease. Correspondence for the defendant company, alleged witness, indicated that the lease would be recognized, and the store rebuilt as soon as possible.

Then stated witness had followed further conversations and correspondence, when a doubt was thrown upon the validity of the lease with respect to that particular site. In personal conversation with a member of the firm, alleged witness, he had been reassured that he was considered as a perfect satisfactory tenant by the defendant company. In July the plaintiffs had notice of certain changes of building which he thought would affect the new store.

These changes, stated witness, included the loss of the basement, the whole of which he understood was to be used by the defendant company; the loss of some eight feet from the front of the building; the loss of a basement entrance being planned on Government Street, and the loss of a skylight which had lighted the former store before the fire gutted it.

Was First Tenant.

Witness held that the present shape of the store as planned would not permit him to display and show cases as heretofore, the store being, he considered, too narrow and the window spaces too shallow for clothing purposes.

On cross-examination by A. D. Macfarlane witness stated the books of his store and all records had been lost in the fire, but that the insurance adjusters had allowed him a full damage claim, witness receiving payment on the basis of a total loss to the full amount of the insurance carried.

Regarding the distribution of the shares in his own company witness admitted that he was a minority shareholder. His wife, he stated, held 49% of the stock of 25 shares, and his brother 35%. This was the situation at the time of the fire. Witness stated in reply to questions that he had acted, on occasion, as proxy for Mrs. O'Connell at directors' meetings.

Mr. O'Connell gave evidence of the financial status of his company, before the court adjourned for luncheon.

Owing to the sudden death of S. R. Roberts the meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association scheduled for this week had been postponed until the first week in December.

LABOR MEN WANT PERMANENT PEACE

Referring to the Lausanne Peace Conference, which, he said, was of the utmost importance, the Opposition leader declared that Labor was not out for a mere tinkering and temporary peace. Labor realists, he said, behind the scenes at Lausanne was "the hidden hand of the oil interests, busy and powerful. These interests were represented in every hotel in the Conference city and everywhere for the purpose of securing national aid for their own projects."

IRISH BILL TO BE DEBATED MONDAY

Premier Bonar Law, in a brief speech, said the first of the two Irish Bills would be taken up by the House next Monday and that they would be completed, which he hoped would be by Wednesday.

He believed the Free State Provisional Government was doing its best, but he was sure Great Britain would do nothing to give it any excuse for going back on the Treaty.

PRAIRIE PEOPLE COMING BUT MUST BE ENTERTAINED

Victorians Most Welcome Visitors, Says George I. Warren

Large numbers of prairie people are coming to the Pacific Coast and particularly to Victoria this winter, but they must be made welcome and entertained here when they arrive if they are to come again, George I. Warren, Commissioner of the Victoria Publicity Bureau, who has just completed a lecture tour of the prairie provinces, told the Rotary Club luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

"When the people from the prairies decide to buy their winter holidays in Canada, they are coming to the attractive tourist resorts in California, they naturally expect to have a good time and it is up to us to let it to them," Mr. Warren declared.

"The prairie people particularly want to play golf and to enjoy bathing in swimming baths. Everywhere on the prairie I heard these two points emphasized by people who wanted to come out to the coast for the winter. If we are to hold the winter tourist business that is growing up here now we have got to welcome these people and treat them as friends, not as intruders. We have got to let them enjoy their stay here so that they will come again and bring their friends."

Many Go South.

"At the present time, I learned on the prairies, every day during the winter two full Pullman cars of prairie people go to California for their holidays. Our efforts are being concentrated on keeping these people in Canada so that Canada will not suffer the serious economic loss caused by their departure to the United States. We are succeeding in diverting this traffic to our coast by the very energetic people of California."

Mr. Warren said he had delivered twenty-two lectures on the prairies about the advantages of Victoria as a tourist resort, and had made four speeches to the Rotary Club in the prairie provinces. He also had distributed 4,000 pieces of literature. Mr. Warren paid tribute to the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways for their efforts to boom Victoria as a winter resort.

Anglo-Irish Treaty will automatically lapse.

It is becoming increasingly evident that the bill will not pass with the smoothness predicted a while ago. The Ulster Unionists and the English "die-hards" have served notice that they intend to raise objections on grounds that the draft of the constitution violates certain provisions of the treaty, but it seems hardly likely that their opposition will endanger the success of the bill or that it will lead to such amendments to the draft as would make the constitution unacceptable to the Irish leaders.

RAMSAY MACDONALD SAYS UNEMPLOYMENT NOT UNDERSTOOD

London, Nov. 23.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Laborite, assumed his new position as Leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons this afternoon, and in the debate on the Speech from the Throne declared that the statement in the King's address regarding unemployment was profoundly unsatisfactory to Labor. He said it showed that the Government had no real appreciation of a terrible tragedy.

Spoke of "Blunders."

Mr. MacDonald said the Labor Party had no interest in the amelioration of the situation of the unemployed, mentioned in the King's Speech, but in the fact that the Government which had created conditions from which the country was now suffering. He called attention to the fact that there were 1,300,000 unemployed in the country. The Labor Party, he said, proposed to introduce an amendment to the Speech from the Throne to show what Labor would do to relieve the situation. He appealed to Premier Bonar Law to receive the delegation of unemployed leaders who had been trying to gain an audience for some days. Mr. MacDonald pledged the assistance of Labor in passing the Irish bill, ratifying the Treaty and legalizing the Free State.

LOCAL ENGINEER DIED SUDDENLY

Samuel R. Roberts, Well-Known Resident, Collapsed Last Night

Shortly after reaching his home, 321 Michigan Street, at midnight last night, Samuel Robert Roberts, a well-known engineer and resident of this city for the past twenty-five years, collapsed and died with tragic suddenness. Mr. Roberts had apparently been in his usual health and had been engaged at his occupation as an engineer in a local theatre until an hour or two before his death.

He was born in Liverpool, England, forty-seven years ago, and had been in British Columbia thirty years. He was a prominent member of the Liberal-Conservative Association and a member of the Vancouver and Quadra Lodge No. 1, A. F. & A. M., and of the Mystic Shrine. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Miss Roberta, of the staff of the South Pacific Hotel, and Miss Mary Roberts, of the Federal Department of Marine. The remains are being kept at the B. C. Funeral Chapel, where the funeral will be held on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Telegraph Briefs

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 23.—The Sydney news were still prostrated this morning from the overwhelming effects of the worst wind and sleet storm in the history of Cape Breton Island.

Verdon, B.C., Nov. 23.—The Okanagan apple crop this year, it is now estimated, will exceed last year's crop by about ten per cent. in the opinion of fruit men here. The yield this year approximate 5,600 cars.

Copenhagen, Nov. 23.—The marriage of Princess Dagmar, youngest sister of King Christian X, to Lieut. Joergen Castenkjold was celebrated to-day. In conformity with the wishes of the Queen the marriage was strictly private. At her own request the bride will be styled Mrs. Castenkjold, retaining the title of Princess only in the event of widowhood or divorce.

Los Angeles, Nov. 23.—Six more speeders were sent to the City Jail to-day by Judge Joseph Chambers after the check of his department of the Police Court had convened for work. There they joined 54, who had been sentenced at preceding sessions of the court. Terms to-day varied from three to five days, and two of those convicted had their drivers' licences suspended for 30 days, in addition to their imprisonment.

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Chancellor Cuno took over the reins of the German Government yesterday, despite the fact that it was a religious and legal holiday and devoted the day to installing himself in the Chancellor's palace and conducting informal conferences with his staff.

Rudolph Oeser, Democratic leader and former Minister of Transportation in Prussia, has formally advised the Chancellor of his acceptance as head of the Ministry of the Interior.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press) Consideration of necessary revision of the Bank Act will, it is said, be one of the principal duties during the coming session of the Committee of the House of Commons on Banking and Finance.

Revision of the Bank Act is due next year, it was pointed out during the last session of Parliament.

It is anticipated that the Government will be asked to consider a revision of the whole credit system of the country.

Should it be decided to refer revision of the Bank Act until another year, the revision of the banks, which would expire automatically next year, would be extended to cover the period of delay, this having been done on previous occasions.

Power to enable municipalities to prohibit shooting on Sunday within their municipal boundaries, was asked for from the municipal committee of the legislature to-day by Reeve Tilton and a delegation of councillors from Richmond.

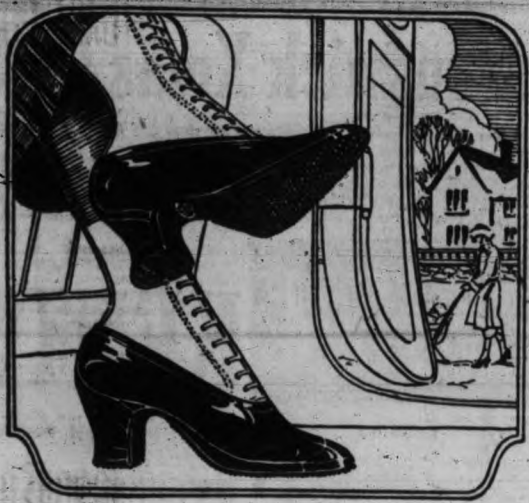

It was explained that municipalities had not the power to prohibit shooting on any particular day of the week, although they could prohibit shooting altogether. Sunday shooting is outlawed on the Prairies, where a modest policeman will appear over the horizon as soon as a man discharges a gun and arrest him, while in Ontario no one would dare suggest going out shooting on Sunday.

AUSTRALIANS WILL VOTE DECEMBER 16

Situation an Involved One Before General Election

Special to The Times.
Melbourne, Nov. 22.—The Australian federal general election will be held December 16. The contest will be one of the most remarkable held in Australia. The conditions parallel those preceding the recent election in Great Britain.

Premier W. M. Hughes heads a coalition of Liberals and Labor. The Liberals are breaking away, and the farmers have already created their own party, as in Canada, and probably will form a working alliance with the Labor Party. This, in all probability, will mean a victory for the Labor Party, now in opposition, the Labor Party that opposed conscription for the winning of the war.

Mr. Hughes has brought forward an elaborate programme for the Coalition, but the finances of Australia are now such that it is extremely unlikely he could, if returned, carry it out. He is personally being opposed in North Sydney by A. B. Piddington, a Sydney lawyer, who is sympathetic to Labor to such an extent that the Opposition Labor Party is leaving him a free run against the Premier. The other parties favor large economies with the exception of Labor, which has declared for an increasing socialization of public services.

In order to win the election the Coalition must hold thirty-eight seats in the lower House. Its majority in the last House varied from one to half a dozen, according as the Farmers' party voted with it or refrains. The Farmers' party in the new House expects either to hold its own, or, if the resuscitated Liberal Party wins, to share in the sweets of office.

Series of Thrills.

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 22.—To be tossed about in a small boat in an angry sea in danger of drowning, then to race six miles in a motorcar through bush, which was spouting flames—such was the experience of Alderman Moroney, of the New-castle, N. S. W. City Council and his friend, Gus Brown.

The little party of two had occasion to journey to Port Stephens on an urgent errand. Crossing the bay, a gale sprang up and their boat was in imminent danger of overturning. Big ugly fins alongside showed the presence of sharks, who were hungry—waiting for the boat to be tossed on end several times.

Then the two men proceeded in their motorcar, but before they had gone a mile a bush fire enveloped them. They had to dash through it with walls of flames on both sides, and the prospect of the explosion of the gasoline tank growing worse and worse every minute. Only by tying handkerchiefs across their faces were the two men able to breathe.

For six miles the race continued, then the car emerged safely. Both passengers were blistered on hands and face, and there and there a speck of paint left on the car. However, they successfully concluded the business deal they had set out to accomplish.

EXPORT AND IMPORT FIGURES REPORTED

Canadian Total for October $22,733,665 Greater Than Year Ago

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—An increase of $22,733,665 in the total value of Canadian products exported during the month of October as compared with October, 1921, is shown by a statement issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Exports of Canadian products last month were to a total value of $102,875,347, as compared with $79,841,682 in October, 1921, and $129,348,220 in October, 1920.

Exports of Canadian products to the United Kingdom last month were to the value of $50,555,981, as compared with $42,875,533, and to other countries, $19,231,133.

The total value of foreign goods imported into Canada also showed an increase last month over October a year ago. Imports for October, 1922, were to the value of $66,875,201, as compared with $59,518,248 in October, 1921, an increase of $7,356,953. Imports from the United States greatly exceeded in value those from other countries, totalling $42,964,005. Imports from the United Kingdom were valued at $13,108,657 and from other countries $10,812,539.

Exports of foreign products from Canada during October last were valued at $1,523,725, as compared with $1,214,471 in October, 1921.

SAYS BRITISH WELCOME CHANGE

Sir George Foster Back in Canada, Speaks of Old Country Government

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—"On the whole I think the more sober opinion of Great Britain welcomes the change and trusts Bonar Law to give a sound, reasonable and consistent administration of foreign and domestic affairs."

This statement on the new British Government was made by Sir George Foster, Canada's veteran statesman, who has just returned from four and half months abroad, with Lady Foster, after spending considerable time in England and visiting Holland, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Bulgaria and Austria.

"The verdict carries out very well the general opinion that a change of Premier and a little more stable and tranquil administration, especially of foreign affairs, is needed at the present time," he said.

"There is throughout all parties a lively appreciation of Lloyd George's great services during the war, and he is to-day the most popular personage in Great Britain."

"The new Government faces great difficulties, as do all Governments in Europe at the present time," Sir George declared.

CRUCIFIXES AND PICTURES OF KING IN ITALIAN SCHOOLS

Rome, Nov. 22.—The Minister of Public Instruction yesterday ordered the mayors of 6,900 municipalities throughout Italy to have replaced immediately on the walls of the public schools, crucifixes and pictures of the King which were removed by the Socialist and Communist administrations.

HAD QUESTION FOR CLEMENCEAU

Greek Importer Made Effort at Meeting in New York

New York, Nov. 23.—V. Coymaglou, a Greek importer, who claims to have held a contract to supply the British army in Mesopotamia during the Great War, to-day addressed a public letter to New York newspapers, admitting that he was the man who attempted to bring a question to M. Clemenceau, from an upper balcony of the Metropolitan Opera House Tuesday night. M. Clemenceau did not answer the question, ignoring the interruption.

"I felt very indignant to hear M. Clemenceau claim that France was the liberator of European countries, when it is an acknowledged fact that France allied herself and armed the bloody Turk and helped him kill all the Christians in Asia Minor against her promise to liberate those people," said the letter.

"Any honest man's blood would boil at similar hypocrisy."

PROGRESSIVE CHIEF IS MAN OF PARTS

Robert Forke Is Capable Farmer as Well as Public Official

Special to The Times.
Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—Robert Forke, the new leader of the Progressive Parliamentary Party of Canada, with sixty-five members out of 235 in the Commons, is just one more reason why the Scotch keep rising to the highest positions in the sphere in which they cast their lot. He has held many offices in the gift of the people of his district and province.

Bob Forke came to Manitoba from Berwick-upon-Tweed in 1882, when he was twenty-two years old, and settled on a homestead in the valley of the Pipestone River in Manitoba. His holdings in that fertile district exceed greatly his original homestead pre-emption and his farming operations are characterized by just that thoroughness his public life would lead observers to expect. He won't if he can help it, have a weed on his place. Largely self-educated, the new leader is a man of parts who keeps himself abreast of the times and is able to express his thoughts in clear, simple and convincing language.

Political Experience.

Mr. Forke is no newcomer to politics. He took part in his first campaign some twenty-five years ago, being one of the first supporters of Sir Clifford Sifton during the time the former Minister of the Interior represented Brandon. He himself contested Virden in the Manitoba Legislature in the election caused by the death of Hon. J. T. Agnew. In 1909, when he was defeated by the Conservative nominee, Harvey Simpson, by 205, Of several municipal offices, the new leader has had many. He was Reeve of Pipestone municipality for some twenty years. For two years he was president of the Union of Manitoba Municipalities and was secretary of the Rural Union for eleven years, resigning the latter office only when nominated to contest Brandon last Fall.

That Mr. Forke is highly thought of in Brandon city is evidenced by the fact that his majority at the general election two years ago was not far short of 4,000 votes.

Mr. Forke is married and has three children, all girls.

EX-SEATTLE WOMAN ARRESTED IN RUSSIA

Mrs. A. P. Bennett Held Three Days and Released

Riga, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Adelaide Parker Bennett, formerly a school teacher in Seattle, Wash., has just been released from prison in Russia, according to word which has reached Riga. She was arrested by agents of the Cheka and detained three days. Mrs. Bennett was taken from her hotel room at 2 o'clock in the morning, but the police agents refused to say why she was arrested. She was later questioned by political investigators.

RAILWAY STRIKE IN JAMAICA

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 23.—The entire staff of mechanics of the Jamaica Government railway lines has gone on strike against a 25 per cent. reduction in wages. The train service is seriously curtailed.

COMMISSIONERS AID EXHIBITION

Dominions' Representatives Members of Empire Fair Committee in Britain

London, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Various statements in the press indicate that the affairs of the British Empire Exhibition are now proceeding more smoothly. The High Commissioners of the Dominions have been added to the management committee of the executive council and are thus able to submit their views directly to the executive.

Sir Edgar Walton, who has been appointed to represent South Africa on the committee, was interviewed to-day by Reuters with reference to the recent discussions. He said a false impression had been created by statements in the press. Inquiries on behalf of High Commissioners into the work of preparation for the exhibition had removed any apprehension of danger that the interests of the Empire were being neglected. "It is a British Empire Exhibition," said Sir Edgar, "and the rule has been laid down that only Empire products will be used in connection therewith."

BORDEN UPHOLDS LEAGUE'S WORK

Hopes United States Will Cooperate and Germany Be a Member

Montreal, Nov. 23.—"Russia, the United States and Germany are the only three nations not yet members of the League of Nations, and they represent a combined population of 150,000,000 people. It is hoped Germany will be admitted to membership at the meeting of the Assembly in 1923. I earnestly hope that some way will be found so that the great nation of the United States may cooperate with the League."

So spoke Sir Robert Borden, former Premier of Canada, and now president of the Society of the League of Nations in Canada. He was dealing last night with the formation of the purposes and achievements of the League at a meeting which formed part of the programme of the two-day session of the executive of the National Council of Women.

As one of the purposes of the National Council is to strive for abolition of war, Sir Robert's plea for an earnest public opinion about the subject has the wholehearted approval of the women's organization.

TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA 2 YEARS

On Face and Arms. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled for about two years with eczema. It broke out on my face and arms in pimples and itched and burned so badly that I lost much sleep on account of it. My face and arms were covered with pimples, and I was ashamed to appear out of the house."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and immediately found relief, and after using only one box of Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Helen Mark, 4259 Maryland St., San Diego, Calif., April 18, 1921.

43% Cream

We shall be glad to pay $100 reward to anyone who will prove that there is any other milk than Pacific being packed in British Columbia. No matter how the label on a can may read, the fact remains that Pacific Milk is the only milk being packed here.

Through an improved process each can of this good milk now contains 43% of cream, which makes it much more economical, as it reduces the quantity of shortening required in baking.

THE COMMUNITY CHEST.

Judged by the amount which has already been collected for the Community Chest the army of canvassers have not found a particularly simple task. On this account, and because of the fact that the total sum collected to date is more than seventy thousand dollars short of the objective, it has been considered desirable to put new vigor into the drive and continue the campaign until the end of next week.

We would point out and emphasize the fact again that the people of Victoria would be actually saving money on their annual benefactions, as well as guaranteeing a much more effective administration of the various branches of public service in this community, by discharging what so many public spirited citizens consider a just debt in one lump sum. This is the principle of the federated budget and it has proved a success in other large centres.

On behalf of the committee responsible for the drive that is now in progress we would urge those who have not responded to the appeal to do so as quickly and as liberally as possible. By so doing the remaining task of the officials who are giving much time and thought to this worthy undertaking will be made the simpler and more pleasant.

BRITISH HOUSE OPENS.

Until the new Parliament gets into its stride it will not be possible to judge the actual strength of Mr. Bonar Law's majority. To be numerically superior to all other parties combined in this case by no means assures him complete safety in divisions where the vital policies of the country are involved and constitute a challenge to the progressive elements. He has little to fear in respect of the legislation that must be passed in ratification of the Irish Free State constitution. Only the "die-hard" faction and the Ulster Unionists will seriously debate this particular question.

If the new Prime Minister should respond to the call of the reactionaries he will risk the possibility of a serious split in his own party—the almost certain defection of that wing which supported Mr. Chamberlain at the famous Carlton Club meeting—and the solid bloc of a combined opposition. For it can be set down as a certainty that the relations which are keeping the two Liberal wings and Labor apart are not as strained as to permit any serious assault upon such progressive legislation as may be anathema to the old Tory school.

Meanwhile it will be interesting to watch Labor on trial in the House as the official Opposition. It will be equally interesting to see how Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Asquith accommodate themselves to a political atmosphere where some of the more aged members of the House sniffed many years ago. Will they make up and be friends and revive the prospects of a cause which has merely suffered temporary eclipse? Before the House has been in session very long this highly interesting point may be settled.

"DIE-HARD" TACTICS.

Neither the Tory "die-hards" nor the Ulster Unionists will get much sympathy from the people of Great Britain in any attempt to hinder the passage of the bill that will provide for the ratification of the constitution of the Irish Free State. It may well be that some of its provisions are not altogether in harmony with the precise spirit and intent of the Treaty; but very few people are concerned with technicalities that have little or no significance except for the legal mind. It is becoming increasingly obvious to the average individual that the Free State Government will do the right thing in its own and the people's interest without friction with the authorities at Westminster. Its determination to stamp out de Valera's rebellious faction and restore order is a fairly reliable guarantee that the benefits to be derived under the new arrangement are already highly estimated by even those members of the Ministry who were ardent republicans prior to the negotiation of the Treaty. For these reasons few people will be alarmed at the threatened tactics of those members of the House of Commons who would still deny the country its right to govern itself. These are the disciples of centralized authority who are unable to progress with the times. Their doctrine is out of date.

TALKING PLAINLY.

Many prominent men and well known publicists on the other side of the Atlantic have sent long range invitations to the United States to come to the aid of the Old World. Up to the present time they have been politely but firmly refused. The language employed in all cases has been the most courteous and care has been taken to say or do nothing that would in any way disturb the pleasant relationship which exists between the principal Allies and the "associated nation" to the South of the line. But Mr. Clemenceau has changed the order of things and has come to the United States with more plain talk than honeyed phrases.

The war Premier of France has addressed two audiences since he has been on this side of the Atlantic. In both instances he has flatly told the people of the other side that they are to blame for all the unrest in which Europe now seethes. There may be some logic in his argument from the point of view that American co-operation in the Peace, as in the War, would have prevented many of the unfortunate ventures which have nearly set the nations of the Old World at one another's throats on more than one occasion. But we doubt very much whether the aged statesman will be successful in the employment of these somewhat spectacular tactics. An American audience is not usually electrified by a recital of Europe's troubles in the ordinary way and it is less likely to discover a new sympathy under the fiery lash of oratory.

None the less every American will admire the courage of the great Frenchman. Many may wince under the charges which he is levelling at the country's international policy; but all will remember Clemenceau and the spirit with which he cheered France and aided the Allied cause when the conflict had reached its most crucial stage. Were it not for this memory his advanced years and dominating personality would command instant respect. Every Canadian will wish him success in his mission. The people of this country realize the influence which our neighbor could wield in the cause of universal peace.

ALLIED SOLIDARITY.

Turkey will not get much out of the first point of conflict which the conferees at Lausanne were called upon to deal with at yesterday's session. The Angora Government's demand for a plebiscite to determine the future of Western Thrace proved the first test of Allied solidarity and the result was a joint and definite negative from Great Britain, France and Italy.

Although it does not follow that all the demands which the Kemalists intend to make will crash against a solid rock of Allied unanimity, the earlier announcement to the effect that the three principal participants had agreed upon a common policy is expected to be borne out by actual development. The test to which we have referred is a highly important one and the stand taken may foreshadow a new policy of co-operation in respect of Near Eastern questions as a whole.

As the conference progresses there will be the customary series of alarms. Reports of an Allied split, with the Entente again in jeopardy, will probably agitate the cables and give some of continental Europe's editorial spellbinders further opportunity to develop new political alignments and set the stage for another war.

On the other hand the fruits of the Lausanne gathering should assist the cause of universal peace. Other meetings of a similar nature may not have accomplished a great deal; but the fact remains that the oftener the statesmen of the world are brought face to face to discuss international affairs the better should be the prospect of mutual understanding and accord.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Lausanne Conference has been going on for four days and nobody has reported a crisis so far.

Mr. Oliver says there is too much talk and not enough work in the Legislature. It was ever thus and always will be.

After seeing the length of Walter Hagen's tee shots yesterday most of the American's performance in wonderment were almost driven to speculate upon the advisability of inventing a new ball or a new club—or of chucking the discouraging business altogether.

Now that Mr. Lloyd George has been relieved of some of the cares of state he might take a trip to the United States and join Mr. Clemenceau. Between them they might put on an attractive "foreign entanglement" turn that would get by.

The member for South Okanagan says the Administration is a one man Government. That ought to make it easy for Mr. Oliver and President Harding to get together and see if Mr. Jones could not get a refund in respect of all those Canadian dollars which he sold to Uncle Sam for ninety cents a short time ago.

SHIP THAT NEVER SAILED.

To the Editor:—Being an old Greenwell Royal Hospital School boy, I am deeply interested in an article in your paper under above heading on Monday, 20th.

It is to be hoped something can be done to save the old ship, which is the largest model of a ship in the world. She must be in pretty poor shape now; she was bad enough when I was on her. We used to call her "H. M. S. Rotten" two decks and a stony bottom."

I was a member of her crew (captain of the mission) that summer, and for the then H. R. H. Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII, when he visited the school, also one of the crew that visited Windsor Castle by special request to drill before her late Majesty Queen Victoria.

I may say millions of people have seen this famous ship, also watched a thousand of young blackheads marching to church on Sunday headed by our famous band. I have only across one of my former shipmates, who used to work for the C. P. R. as a carpenter when at Victoria. Would like to know of any other.

ERNEST P. BURCH.

THE EMPRESS HOTEL.

To the Editor:—Will you kindly allow me, through the columns of your paper, to make a few remarks concerning certain concessions which the City Council will recommend be granted to the C. P. R. by the ratepayers of the City.

After reading the various statements made by certain Aldermen on this question, I am constrained in my opinion to say there is no justification whatsoever for any concessions being granted to the C. P. R. on account of the Empress Hotel.

Why all this twaddle about the Empress Hotel as an asset to the city? Is it any more of an asset than any other hotel or individual citizen who has to scrape and pinch in order to pay his water bills and taxes? I think not.

The C. P. R. is not a charitable institution, and any person who has had occasion to use their system will realize this to the full. No, sir, the C. P. R. is a corporation making huge profits and paying large dividends, and although they may own a large part of Canada it is no reason why we should give them the city of Victoria. There is no earthly reason why the C. P. R. should be granted any concessions, and any Alderman who suggests otherwise is in my humble judgment, working against the best interests of the citizens of Victoria and should resign from office.

The city fathers are all the time talking of increasing the taxes of the already over-burdened taxpayers, and yet, almost in the same breath, they talk of presenting to the C. P. R. in the form of certain concessions many thousands of dollars.

In conclusion, I would appeal to the ratepayers of Victoria that when they mark their ballots at the next civic election they mark them in such a manner as will inform the C. P. R. that when they wish to purchase any commodity which the city of Victoria has for sale they must pay the full price for it, the same as any other citizen.

VICTORIA'S CHANCE.

To the Editor:—It was with much interest and gratification that I read your leading article last evening, following up the remarks of Dr. J. W. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner to China, who spoke to the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce Monday, in connection with Canada's opportunity of seeking trade as a manufacturing nation, by taking advantage of the enormous surplus in the Orient and to Europe.

Canada has a great advantage in this enormous field for trade expansion, and as Dr. Ross has suggested, many of our manufacturing establishments which have no doubt locate branch factories, or even move their whole plant to the Pacific Coast, for the reason that the long freight haul across the continent would be a serious handicap in competing with the American factories already well established on the Coast.

As Canada must reach out and demonstrate to the buyers in the Far East that she can make and supply the commodities they wish to buy, so must the British Columbia Coast reach out and demonstrate or persuade Eastern Canada that here is the logical place to must work from in order to capture that commerce.

Mrs. Burchett gave the financial report of the Girl Guides.

The annual fancy dress ball was again discussed, and it was finally decided to leave the choice of the setting of the date and the orchestra to the agents and the first vice-regent. The proceeds from this ball will go towards furnishing a room in the King's Daughters' Hospital which the chapter wishes to undertake.

The meeting then adjourned.

WHIST DRIVE.

Special to The Times
Langford—The second of the series of progressive whist drives was held at the home of Mrs. Gibson on Tuesday night, when a very pleasant and social evening was spent. Twenty-four players took part, and at the close of the evening Mrs. Gibson was leading.

Refreshments were served by the joint hostesses, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Eve. The third of the series will be held on Tuesday, December 12, at the home of Mrs. Comie.

The Langford Women's Institute will meet on Tuesday, November 28, at 2.30. Roll call, "Your Idea of a Christmas Gift."

against the plebiscite may swing over to the other side as the December election is the logical time for the submission of plebiscites.

Many Plebiscites Planned.

Electors who go to the polls in December will have a busy time. They will vote to elect a Mayor, aldermen, school trustees and a police commissioner. They also will vote on the advisability of changing the weekly half-holiday from Wednesday to Saturday; on the desirability of horse racing; on further tax and water rate concessions to the Empress Hotel; on an agreement for the establishment of an amusement centre here on freely granted city land, and possibly on the taxation of improvements.

"P. R." Vote Suggested.

Members of the Council to-day discussed informally the advisability of submitting to the electors a plebiscite on the re-establishment of the proportional representation system of voting here. Mayor Marchant, himself an exponent of the system, is opposed to a plebiscite on the question. He says that the electors decided not to continue "P. R." here and that decision should stand.

The chapter promised to undertake and manage a fishpond at the children's party to be given on December 28 in support of the Children's Aid Society. The King's Daughters are managing the Christmas tree and the Women's Institute the refreshments.

Mrs. Christmas gave a report on the meeting she attended in Nanaimo, to which she was the delegate from the Cowichan Chapter.

The I.O.D.E. war memorial for Canada is still short of the necessary funds to complete it, and much discussion took place as to the best way for the Cowichan Chapter to contribute more towards this splendid object. It was finally decided to ask each member for a voluntary offering, as much as each could possibly afford. The regent, Mrs. Christmas, besides a large personal contribution, will give a card party at her home on December 6, and it is expected every member of the chapter will be present.

REPLICA OF SILVER STOOL OF ASHANTI FOR PRINCESS MARY

An Interesting Presentation From Natives of Gold Coast

London, Nov. 23.—Wedding gifts from the Queen Mothers and people of Ashanti and of the Gold Coast were presented to Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles recently at Chesterfield House by Lady Guggisberg, wife of the Governor of the Gold Coast, who was accompanied by Mrs. Lewis, wife of the treasurer, Mr. J. E. Hutton-Mills, and Captain R. S. Rattray. A silver stool, the gift of the women of Ashanti, is an exact replica of the Queen Mother's stool, and was handed by Amma Sewa Akoto, the senior Queen Mother, to Lady Guggisberg for presentation to Princess Mary.

Accompanying the stool was a printed document in which information is given concerning the old mothers of Africa who sent this tribute of love, loyalty and good wishes to the beloved Princess, and describing how the stool was made and consecrated. In making the presentation Lady Guggisberg handed to the Princess a translation of the address of Amma Sewa Akoto, which runs as follows:

"I place this stool in your hands. It is a gift on her wedding for the King's child, Princess Mary. 'Ashanti' stool-makers have carved it, and Ashanti silversmiths have embossed it. All the Queen Mothers who dwell here in Ashanti have contributed towards it, and, as I am the senior Queen Mother in Ashanti, I stand as representative of all the Queen Mothers, and place it in your hands to send to the King's child. 'It may be that the King's child has heard of the Golden Stool of Ashanti. That is the stool which contains the soul of the Ashanti nation. All we women of Ashanti thank the Governor exceedingly because he has declared to us that the English will never again use the stool which contains the soul of the Ashanti nation. It does not contain our soul as our Golden Stool does, but it contains all the love of our Queen Mothers and of our women. The spirit of this love we have bound to the stool with silver fetters just as we are accustomed to bind our own spirits to the base of our stools. 'We in Ashanti have a law which decrees that it is the daughters of a Queen who alone can transmit royal blood, and that the children of a King cannot be heirs to that stool. This law has given us women a power in this land so that we have a saying which runs: 'It is the woman who bears the man.' 'We hear that her law is not so, nevertheless we have great joy in sending her our congratulations, and we pray the great God Nyankpon, on whom men lean and do not fall, whose day of worship is a Saturday, and whom the Ashanti serve just as the natives of India do, that he may give the King's child and her husband long life and happiness, and finally, when she sits upon this silver stool, which the women of Ashanti have made for her, while Queen Mother, may she call us to mind. (Sgd.) AMMA SEWA AKOTO. 'An Ashanti cloth woven in the country was presented from the men of Ashanti. A suggestion was placed before Princess Mary that a certain sum of money remaining over from the contributions should be invested with a view to the endowment of a 'Princess Mary' women's ward in the new hospital of Accra. Her Royal Highness expressed herself delighted with the proposal.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. G. Marr Duncan was hostess at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Kathleen Jones, who is to be married shortly. Parties were held in the form of stepping stones, and as the bride-elect arrived she had to walk the "Rocky Road to Matrimony," and then open the parcels which were numerous and useful gifts. The table decorations were carried out in a color scheme of pink and white, the electric fixture over the table forming a pink rose with Cupid on a swing over a bowl of pink and white carnations making a pretty centerpiece. The place cards were attached to a heart-shaped umbrella. The invited guests were former classmates at the Jubilee Hospital training school and included Miss Kathleen Jones, Miss Wood, Miss Newman, Miss A. Boyce, Miss M. Hambley, Mrs. R. Balcom, Mrs. E. Harwood, Mrs. B. Wallis, Mrs. B. Fraser, Mrs. A. Watt, Miss McCullough, Mrs. J. Richmond, Miss D. Gray, Miss Christie, Miss Merfield, Miss M. Harmon.

LIBERAL WOMEN FORM SOCIAL CLUB

Miss Lillian Neary Elected President of New Organization

Eighty members joined the roster for the Ladies' Liberal Club, which was organized at a meeting in the Liberal rooms last evening, and there is every indication that within a short time the club membership will have made considerable advance. F. R. Carlow, President of the Victoria Liberal Association, who is taking an active interest in the formation of the club, gave an address on organization, and spoke briefly of the work of the Minimum Wage Board and the Mothers' Pensions Board as they affect the women of the Province.

Officers elected to represent the club for the balance of the year were as follows: Hon. Presidents, Mrs. Ralph Smith and Mrs. M. Hord; President, Miss Lillian Neary; Vice-President, Mrs. Ralph Clark; Secretary, Miss Lorraine Price.

In addition to these officers an executive of ten, two members from each ward was elected as follows: Ward One, Mrs. Moore and Miss Freda Hazenfratz; Ward Two, Miss Winnie Knapton and Miss Lella Carlow; Ward Three, Mrs. Elsie Zala and Miss Eva Harter; Ward Four, Mrs. Pearce and Mrs. Benwell; Ward Five, Miss Enid Brown and Miss Nora Edwards.

Following the election Attorney-General Manson addressed the gathering, explaining the principles of Parliamentary procedure, and giving a brief history of the various political parties of Canada.

Discussion of a proposed social programme for the new organization led to a decision to hold a ball in the Alexandra ballroom on Wednesday, December 6, under the patronage of the members of the Cabinet and Liberal members of the Legislature, when the newly-formed Liberal orchestra will be in attendance. The committee appointed to make the necessary arrangements included the following: Miss Augusta Herman, Miss Maureen McGimpsey, Mrs. Elsie Zala, Mrs. Benwell, Miss Marion Kenning, Miss Lorraine Price and Miss Lillian Neary.

Major Bayn, a member of the Overseas Club in London, who is passing through the city en route for Australia, was the guest of honor at a luncheon tendered to him by the local members of the Overseas Club at the Dominion Hotel yesterday, when twenty-five members were present.

Among the interested spectators at yesterday's big golf match at Colwood Golf and Country Club when Walter Hagen, the British Open Champion played, were: Dr. and Mrs. Lennox, Dr. Hermann Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Seiden Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard, Mrs. Philbrick, Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Macan, Mrs. P. Taylor, Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Parry, Mr. J. W. Corning, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hargrave, Mr. J. Hargrave, Mr. A. C. Flamerfelt, Mr. E. M. Brown, Col. A. W. Jones, Dr. J. D. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Biggarstaff Wilson, Mr. R. H. B. Ker, Mr. Strath, Slade, Angus Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Hew Paterson and many others.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. G. Marr Duncan was hostess at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Kathleen Jones, who is to be married shortly. Parties were held in the form of stepping stones, and as the bride-elect arrived she had to walk the "Rocky Road to Matrimony," and then open the parcels which were numerous and useful gifts. The table decorations were carried out in a color scheme of pink and white, the electric fixture over the table forming a pink rose with Cupid on a swing over a bowl of pink and white carnations making a pretty centerpiece. The place cards were attached to a heart-shaped umbrella. The invited guests were former classmates at the Jubilee Hospital training school and included Miss Kathleen Jones, Miss Wood, Miss Newman, Miss A. Boyce, Miss M. Hambley, Mrs. R. Balcom, Mrs. E. Harwood, Mrs. B. Wallis, Mrs. B. Fraser, Mrs. A. Watt, Miss McCullough, Mrs. J. Richmond, Miss D. Gray, Miss Christie, Miss Merfield, Miss M. Harmon.

IS LUCKNOW SURVIVOR

George Millett

Mr. Millett has the distinction of being one of the few survivors of the Siege of Lucknow, which was relieved by Sir Colin Campbell on November 17, 1857, was congratulated on his attainment of the sixty-first anniversary of the relief at a meeting of the Lucknow Branch of the W. A. by one of their members, namely, the "Lucknow Fund" was started, each member making something for which she is particularly talented, and for which a special stall will be provided at any sale of work organized by the branch, the proceeds of the same to be called a "Lucknow Fund," and to be donated specially to some suitable memorial to those who gave their lives in the Great War.

The majority appeared to favor a stained glass window to be placed by the altar when the new church is built, which it is hoped will be next Spring. The first "Lucknow Fund" will be amongst those at the sale of work to be held at Lanford Hall on November 23, which will be opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by Mrs. H. Ellice bridge distaster of 1895.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By HELEN KENDALL

THE MANDARIN COAT

That the decorative Beauty of our interiors has been greatly enriched by oriental colors, designs and fabrics, is known by all of us who have accumulated Japanese screens and ceramics, Chinese bowls, ivories and silken pillows, and all the colorful lanterns, lacquered furniture and dwarf shrubs that come from the Far East.

Our wardrobe, too, have taken on "more than oriental" colors, shapes of gorgeous kimono, embroidered for trimming, and the stunning mandarin coats which make such beautiful evening wraps.

These gorgeous garments, however, have their place in the decoration of the home as well as for wearing purposes. Not long ago I entered an apartment whose bright walls were ornamented with Japanese prints, whose electric light were hung within decorative Japanese shades, and where the tea-wagon was equipped with lustrous orange-vermilion porcelain and oddly shaped caddies and tea-bowls. The beauty spot of the entire room, however, was a splendid mandarin coat draped across the back of a wicker chair. It was of black and gold, vermilion and Chinese blue, and was delightful to behold.

On a wicker divan in the same apartment was spread a wide embroidered skirt in strips of Chinese embroidery, the whole lined with rich vermilion. These things, which open down the side, make charming modern window shades, a living-room table, chair or couch. It is better to leave them in their original shape than to cut them and fit them to chair backs and seats, or to fit our modern windows, as I have sometimes seen them treated to their great detriment. Part of their beauty lies in their oriental cut and unusual lines.

Not only that, but whenever we go to a fancy dress ball we take these coats and skirts off the furniture and put them on," laughed the owner of the apartment. "They make wonderful costumes, and have several times won prizes for us when accompanied by appropriate shoes, head-dresses and wig."

Butler Rescued

Famous Artists' Works Saved From Rebel Bullets in Ireland

The British army in Ireland is just now the custodian of eight famous battle pictures, the work of Lady Butler, which have been rescued from a centre of Irish disturbances in County Tipperary.

Due to the disturbed state of the district, Free State troops were garrisoned in Lady Butler's home, Bannha Castle, County Tipperary, and Lady Butler had to leave. Her son, Colonel F. R. Butler, of the Royal Welch Fusiliers, hurried from England to Tipperary to try and save his mother's pictures. He reached Bannha Castle on the night it was attacked by the rebels.

Colonel Butler was able to get the pictures out of their frames and, collecting the plates and heliostats, set out for Dublin, where Sir Nevill Macready, the British commander-in-chief, agreed to take charge of them.

The pictures which Colonel Butler rescued included "The Charge of the Camel Corps," which was damaged by six bullets; "To the Front," a French war picture of 1870; "The Retreat to Corunna," and two South African studies. Lady Butler's picture, "The Roll Call," is one of the best known paintings in existence.

LOCAL SHIPPING MAN MARRIED

Two well-known young people were united in marriage at a pretty ceremony at St. Mark's Church, Boleston Road, on Monday evening, when Marjorie Kate, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Ford, 2345 Pine Street, became the bride of Joseph Henry (Dot) Davidson, youngest son of Mrs. Davidson, of 617 Pine Street, Victoria West, and local agent for Dowdell & Co., representatives of the Blue Funnel Line, this ceremony being officiated by Rev. H. V. Hitchcock performed the ceremony and Mr. B. Waude sang the solo "Because" during the signing of the register. The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in a gown of white satin with radium lace panels trimmed with pearls and wearing the conventional veil and carrying a showy bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Hickman, wearing a dress of apricot satin with silver lace, with a black picture hat, and the bride's little sister, Ade, dressed in turquoise blue satin, with hat to match, carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mr. Robert F. Davidson, supported the bridegroom. The ushers were Mr. G. R. Ford and Mr. W. Davidson. The reception was held at St. Mark's Hall, over two hundred guests attending, the happy couple receiving the best wishes of their numerous friends under a prettily decorated arch. A delicious buffet supper was served, the table being prettily decorated with autumn leaves and streamers, with a large three-tier cake in the centre.

After the supper dancing was indulged in, the music being supplied by Messrs. A. Food, J. Young and R. Kinloch. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left on the midnight boat for Portland, via Vancouver. The bride wore a smart travelling suit of brown velvet with hat to match.

PROPOSE STAINED GLASS WINDOW AS LANGFORD MEMORIAL

As no memorial to the fallen heroes of the Langford district has yet been erected, an excellent suggestion was brought forward at the last meeting of the Langford branch of the W. A. by one of their members, namely, the "Langford Fund" was started, each member making something for which she is particularly talented, and for which a special stall will be provided at any sale of work organized by the branch, the proceeds of the same to be called a "Langford Fund," and to be donated specially to some suitable memorial to those who gave their lives in the Great War.

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE.

Celebration of the birthday of the Connaught Seamen's Institute took the pleasing form of a tea and social gathering in the Institute yesterday afternoon when the members of the Ladies' Guild for Sailors were delightful hostesses. Mrs. Alice Thomson, the president, welcomed the guests who numbered about seventy. Under the direction of Miss Kate Hemming, who herself sang two solos pleasingly, an attractive programme was given, including Hawaiian dances in costumes by Miss Carpenter, songs by Mr. Thos. Kelsey and Miss Myra Renwick, violin solos by Mrs. Frederick Moore and piano solos by Mrs. Hauser. A delicious tea was served by the ladies. Prior to the close of the afternoon Mrs. Thomson in a happy little speech expressed her pleasure at seeing so many friends whose presence showed their sympathetic interest in the work of the Guild.

It was time for Joan to retire, but no coaxing could induce her. At last daddy came to this rescue, by offering to lie on the bed with the "daddy" came.

Presently mother began to wonder why daddy did not return, when she heard a soft pit-a-pat and a little white-robed figure stood in the doorway.

She put her finger to her lip and said, "Sh! mummy, I've got daddy off to sleep at last!"

MANSON URGES STOP TO CHINESE HIRING WHITE GIRLS IN B. C.

Fear that there has been neglect on the part of some municipalities in enforcing the laws against the employment of white girls by Chinese, was expressed in the Legislature by

Attorney-General Manson when his amendments to the Factories Act came before committee. These amendments are aimed at making Orientals comply with the hours of work.

Mr. Manson said that, for instance, although the law had been in force for a couple of years nothing had been done in Prince Rupert until he himself brought it to the attention of the chief of police there.

In explanation of questions asked him Mr. Manson said that police are supposed to enforce this law and that restaurants where most of the employment of white girls by Orientals is carried on did not come under the Government inspector of factories.

H.G. WELLS FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY

The Romance of Mother Earth

TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT—64

The Hebrew Scriptures—(Continued)

Fruits of the Jewish Captivity

With the reign of King Solomon the brief glory of the Hebrew ends; the northern and richer section of his kingdom, long oppressed by taxation to sustain his splendours, breaks off from Jerusalem to become the separate kingdom of Israel, and this split ruptures that linking connection between Sion and the Red Sea by which Solomon's gleam of wealth was possible. There is no more wealth in Hebrew history. Jerusalem remains the capital of one tribe, the tribe of Judah, the capital of a land of barren hills, cut off by Philistia from the sea and surrounded by enemies.

Three Centuries of War. The tale of wars, of religious conflicts, of usurpations, assassinations, and of fratricidal murders to secure the throne goes on for three centuries. It is a tale frankly barbaric, Israel with Judah, and Judah with neighboring states; forms alliances first with one and then with the other. The power of Aramean Syria burns like a baleful star over the affairs of the Hebrews, and then there rises behind it the great and growing power of the last Assyrian empire.

For three centuries the life of the Hebrews was like the life of a man who insists upon living in the middle of a busy thoroughfare, and is consequently being run over constantly by omnibuses and motor-lorries.

"Pul" (apparently the same person as Tiglath Pileser III.) is, according to the Bible narrative, the first Assyrian monarch to appear upon the Hebrew horizon, and Menahem buys him off with a thousand talents of silver (738 B. C.). But the power of Assyria is heading straight for the new age of Assyrian power, entered upon a phase of revival, first under Sennacherib and then under Necho II.

The Fall of Jerusalem. Again the little country in between made mistakes in its alliances. But on neither side was there safety. Josiah opposed Necho, and was slain at the battle of Megiddo (608 B. C.). The king of Judah became an Egyptian tributary. Then when Necho, after pushing as far as the Euphrates, fell before Nebuchadnezzar II, Judah fell with him (594 B. C.). Nebuchadnezzar, after a trial of three puppet kings, carried off the greater part of the people into captivity in Babylon (586 B. C.), and the rest, after a rising and a massacre, Babylonian officials took refuge from the vengeance of Chaldean in Egypt.

And all the vessels of the house of God, great and small, and the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king, and his princes; all these he brought to Babylon. And they burnt the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the palaces thereof with fire, and destroyed all the goodly vessels thereof. And them that had escaped from the sword, carried he away to Babylon; where they were servants to him and his sons until the reign of the kingdom of Persia. (II. Chron. XXXVI. 18, 19, 20).

So the four centuries of Hebrew kingship comes to an end. From first to last it was a mere incident in the larger and greater history of Egypt, Syria, Assyria and Phoenicia. But out of it there came now to arise moral and intellectual consequences of primary importance to all mankind.

A Changed People. The Jews who returned, after an interval of more than two generations, to Jerusalem from Babylon in the time of Cyrus were a very different people from the Jewish people of the time of the Captivity. They were a confused and divided multitude, with no national self-consciousness; they came back with an intense and exclusive national spirit. They were Jews with a common literature generally known to them, for it was only about forty years before the captivity that King Josiah is said to have discovered "a book of the law" in the temple (II. Kings XXII.), and, besides that, there is not a hint in the record of any reading of books; and they returned with the Jewish mind fixed, that relieved of their bickering and murderous kings, restrained from politics and in the intellectually stimulating atmosphere of the Babylonian world; the Jewish mind made a great step forward during the captivity.

It was an age of historical inquiry and learning in Babylonia. The Babylonian influences that had made Sardanapalus collect a great library of ancient writings in Nineveh were still at work. We have already told how Nabonidus was preoccupied with antiquarian research as to neglect the defence of his kingdom against Cyrus. Everything, therefore, contributed to set the exiled Jews inquiring into their own history, and they found an inspiring leader in the prophet Ezekiel.

The Idea of "The Chosen People" From such hidden and forgotten records as they had with them, genealogies, contemporary histories of kings, legends and traditions, they made out and amplified their own story, and told it to Babylon and themselves. The story of the Creation and the Flood, much of the story of Moses, much of Samson, were probably incorporated from Babylonian sources. When the Jews returned to Jerusalem, only the Pentateuch had been put together into one book, but the grouping of the rest of the historical books was bound to follow.

The rest of their literature remained for some centuries as separate books, to which a very variable amount of respect was paid. Some of the later books are frankly post-captivity compositions. Over all this with Babylon (700 B. C.), which was in revolt against Sargon II. of Assyria.

There followed the conquest of Egypt by Sennacherib, and then for a time Assyria was occupied with her own troubles; the Scythians and Medes and Persians were pressing her on the North, and Babylon was in insurrection. As we have already noted, Egypt, relieved for a time from Assyrian pressure, entered upon a phase of revival, first under Sennacherib and then under Necho II.

The personal property tax was attacked in the Legislature last night by Thomas Pearson, Conservative member for Richmond, who declared his regret at the necessity to include that item once more in the estimates of revenue.

"It is the most unjust taxation we have on our list," Mr. Pearson said. "It is sufficiently large to tax a man's property, and it is a tax on the property of our population engaged in trade and commerce. Many of those merchants who are taxed on their personal property are having great difficulties to meet their obligations to-day and when you put that extra burden on them it is more than they can handle."

Mr. Pearson declared that the overhead expense of conducting business was greater than it had ever been and in fact so heavy that it made possible for a couple of the large department stores of Canada to flood British Columbia markets with their goods through the mail order system, and at prices which merchants here could not meet.

A number of these merchants here are facing bankruptcy," Mr. Pearson said. "Many of the goods on their shelves were bought at war prices and when they cannot sell at the present prices they are forced to close their doors or to sell at a loss. Their stock is attacked by this personal property tax. That is certainly hitting a man when he is down."

Premier Oliver said that under the present system of financing the Province had fixed charges to meet and when there was no profit, it was necessary to sacrifice part of fixed capital to meet these charges, and that was the reason for the personal property tax.

Mr. Pearson urged that the Government should give some information on the Coast Range Steel proposals as the proposed industry was of sufficient importance to require that the public should have some knowledge of what was going on.

literature were thrown certain leading ideas. There was an idea, which even these books themselves gainfully in detail, that all the people were pure-blooded children of Abraham; there was next an idea of a promise made by Jehovah to Abraham that he would exalt the Jewish race above all other races; and, thirdly, there was the belief first of all that Jehovah was the greatest and most powerful of tribal gods, and then that he was a God above all other gods, and at last that he was the only true God. The Jews became convinced at last as a people that they were the chosen people of the one God of all the earth.

And arising very naturally out of these three ideas was a fourth, the idea of a coming leader, a saviour, a Messiah who would realize the long-postponed promises of Jehovah.

COMMUNITY CHEST PLAN WILL BE RE-ORGANIZED

Time May Be Extended to Saturday, December 2

Cohesion of Workers Sought: $73,125 Still Required

"If the Community Chest falls in the city of Victoria this year it will be dead here forever—it will be killed definitely unless we put it over now," observed the chairman, J. D. O'Connell, expressing the conviction arrived at by twenty-five members of the Community Chest drive in a meeting at the Spratt-Shaw Institute in the Welles Building last night.

Action Suggested After discussion, where the main issue became slightly fogged by the interpolation of matters of policy by speakers on behalf of some of the returned soldier organizations, the meeting emerged with the following concrete and definite action:

It would be recommended to the directors' meeting to-day: That the time limit of the drive be extended until Saturday week.

That a central office be established with a staff of four at the former Mitchell & Duncan store site, Broad and View Streets, at once.

That under Colonel Lorrie Ross the staff should keep the telephone wires busy by constant touch with team captains and team workers, who would report at least daily.

That the 200 workers now canvassing in twenty-seven teams should be grouped into teams of eight and co-ordinated as a working whole to cover the field systematically.

Co-Ordination Necessary A resolution moved by R. W. Mayhew to this effect, seconded by Brig. Gen. R. P. Clark, carried without a dissenting voice. The directors met to-day when the proposals will be laid before them in detail. Arising out of reports that showed that thirty teams working, 200 canvassers in all, left a large part of the city uncovered, the necessity for co-ordination of effort was realized.

It was said that of the 200 canvassers lending their time voluntarily, three now were in Esquimalt, seven in Fernwood and the remainder in Fairford and other districts of the city. The team captains, thirty in number, did not report even daily, and only two were present last night, stated the chairman.

Balance of $73,125 Fourteen returns from canvassers showed $7,000 had been collected or turned into the local office on Monday, while the total to last night was given as $12,875, leaving a balance of $73,125 to collect if the full budget were to be realized.

The canvassers reported that they had met with the figure of $6,000 in the budget for campaign expenses, which seemed to militate against a generous spirit on the part of the public. It was emphasized by the chairman and other directors present that the figure of $6,000 under that head was not intended to be spent, and that it was realized that the work was entirely voluntary.

Directors Careful Mr. O'Connell expressed the opinion that the directors had been entirely too rigidly and would not sanction the expenditure of enough money to get results. That the sum of $6,000 would be spent on the campaign was a gross misconception and not in accordance with fact or intention; no such sum would be spent, he stated.

Looks For Success. The chairman expressed every hope that the budget amount would be raised in the closing days of the campaign, which like every other movement took a while to get started. James Graham, nominal head of the teams, asked for the will of the meeting, in that he felt some question appeared to have arisen as to the advisability of continuing the drive at all. After some discussion the meeting expressed itself strongly in favor of going ahead with the drive and making it a success.

Several speakers attacked amounts under various heads in the budget, but were silenced when it was explained the meeting could not deal with the policy, but was for the purpose of supporting the campaign.

"Watch the Clock." R. W. Mayhew suggested the daily publication of the total received, and another the installation of a "watch-the-clock" feature which would show hourly the progress of the drive.

P. B. Skurrah stated a meeting of the publicity committee had not been called for two weeks and suggested adding to their numbers by the presence of trained men; by the operation of advertising managers of the larger department stores in fact. P. A. Rayner suggested the engagement of a paid publicity expert to attend to all details of the drive.

Mr. Down suggested that free publication be secured from the theatres of the city. Mr. Down was immediately added to the publicity committee.

Canvassers Enough. J. B. Corley urged that 200 men in eight teams would be sufficient; if they were under one control, and if there were cohesion in the canvassing with frequent reports. Team work without the co-operation of the press was useless he added. Mr. Weir suggested a daily lunch for the workers, offering the facilities of the Veterans of France Building for the purpose.

A census of the teams captains taken at this juncture showed two present out of thirty acting. All captains had been asked to report to-day at the Broad Street office, stated the chairman.

Ratify Advance. Postponement of the drive until January 5 next year. This was opposed, and a week's extension mooted. It was finally decided to reorganize as suggested, and proceed with redoubled energy along more co-operative lines, making the public acquainted day by day of the immediate progress of the drive.

Seeking "A Punch." "We have failed up to the present time to get the right kind of a punch," summarized J. D. O'Connell. "We have that punch packed away somewhere, and I am not yet convinced that the public are not with us. Where there is plenty of charity is a duty, not a courtesy nor a favor, but a duty as we bring that present out of thirty acting. All captains had been asked to report to-day at the Broad Street office, stated the chairman.

Ratify Advance. Postponement of the drive until January 5 next year. This was opposed, and a week's extension mooted. It was finally decided to reorganize as suggested, and proceed with redoubled energy along more co-operative lines, making the public acquainted day by day of the immediate progress of the drive.

Seeking "A Punch." "We have failed up to the present time to get the right kind of a punch," summarized J. D. O'Connell. "We have that punch packed away somewhere, and I am not yet convinced that the public are not with us. Where there is plenty of charity is a duty, not a courtesy nor a favor, but a duty as we bring that fact home we will have no difficulty in getting the money we need. "Systems change with the years. The Community Chest is the modern answer to the problem of the day. Let us leave here feeling we are putting up the right thing. It is a fact we are not getting the results, but let us not admit defeat," concluded the chairman.

"One For All." R. W. Mayhew here moved the extension of the time until Saturday in next week, and the addition of Messrs. L. Edwards, P. A. Rayner and R. J. Down as a voluntary staff under Col. Lorrie Ross. The motion carried. J. B. Corley supplied the concluding words of the meeting by suggesting the motto for the commitment: "One for All, and All for One," he stated, the cry being taken up with considerable enthusiasm as the adjournment was carried into effect.

1847 ROGERS BROS. SILVERPLATE

When does a woman have enough silverplate?

IT is often embarrassing not to have enough. Your duties as a hostess call for more than spoons, knives and forks. Niceties of table service are quickly noticed and commented upon.

We suggest a sugar shell, butter spreaders, individual salad forks, etc.—all in the time-tested 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate.

Many beautiful patterns make selection easy. To commemorate our Seventy-fifth Anniversary, they are packed this year, without extra charge, in attractively decorated chests and gift boxes.

Be sure to see these beautiful GIFT PACKAGES at your dealer's.

When you ask to see this fine silverplate, ask for it by its FULL name, "1847 Rogers Bros."

ELKS ENTERTAIN PROVINCIAL CHIEF

Large Delegation Down From Nanaimo Also Guests Here

Local Elks to the number of about three hundred, including about fifty members from the Nanaimo Lodge, held a joint business session at the Elks' Club last evening, and at the same time extended a hearty welcome to Grand Exalted Ruler of British Columbia, Albert A. Davies. Following the business session a smoking concert was held in which some splendid talent assisted with the programme. Brothers Joe "Twenty-One" Cooper, P. McAlpine and Oscar Thomas, of Nanaimo, and Alfred Adams, Ernest Butterworth, Horace Potts and George Gray, of Victoria, contributed to the success of the entertainment. Following the smoking concert refreshments were served, and the merry party dispersed about midnight.

The memorial service of the Victoria Lodge will be held on Sunday, December 3, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, commencing at 3 o'clock. This function is one of the most sacred of the annual features of Elksdom, and all members are urged to bear the service in mind. The visitors from Nanaimo included the following: District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler A. A. Davies, Past Grand Exalted Ruler J. Z. Miller, Brothers A. L. Bendoff, O. Orlandson, C. Ironside, P. McAlpine, H. Brick, J. Buck, Thomas James, J. McKinnell, Joe Cooper, Len Booth, Edward Handlen, A. Addison, Charles Rosewald, Joe Dobson, K. Sage, W. Adrian, Oscar Thomas, John Majgeor, Jack Gardiner, F. Stedham, Parker McKie, Ralph Hamlyn and Edward Stainstill.

SILVER CUP FOR PART IN RESCUE

Japanese Government Appreciative of Rescue by Capt. F. H. Pearson

Washington, Nov. 23.—The Emergency Fleet Corporation announced today that it had forwarded to Capt. Fred H. Pearson, of Seattle, formerly master of the Shipping Board steamship West Ivan, a silver cup from the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs and a letter of congratulations for his rescue in the Pacific over a year ago of the captain and crew of 45 of the Japanese steamship Fukui Maru, which had sprung a leak, and was sinking.

Accompanying the cup, which was transmitted to the Corporation by the State Department, was a letter to Captain Pearson from the Japanese Foreign Minister expressing gratitude, not only for the bravery displayed in the rescue, but for the kindness shown the Japanese sailors on the West Ivan.

TRANSPORT LOGAN IS CARGO CARRIER FOR ONE VOYAGE

San Francisco, Nov. 23.—The former army transport Logan, recently purchased by Asa Candler of Atlanta to be used as a school for boys, is now on berth to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company loading cargo for Baltimore. The Logan will relieve the congested freight conditions which have confronted the Pacific Mail Company in the inter-coastal service for several weeks. After discharging on the east coast the vessel will be turned over to the owner.

TUG PETREL IS OFFERED FOR SALE

The tug Petrel is being offered for sale by tender by the Purchasing Committee of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The tug is a 100-ton vessel and will be received until noon December 6.

The Petrel is now lying in Burrard Inlet, and is no longer required by the Department of Public Works. The craft is well known here, having been used in connection with public works operations in Victoria harbor.

S. S. MANILA MARU HAS TO HUNDRED TONS FOR VICTORIA

Some two hundred tons measure cargo will be discharged here when the S. S. Manila Maru, of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, Captain Y. Somekawa, arrives on December 1.

According to cable advices received here by Rithet Consolidated, Ltd., the Manila left Yokohama November 17.

Ten first class passengers and twenty steerage are booked for the United States, while twelve steerage passengers will embark at Victoria.

LARGE APPLE EXPORT FROM PUGET SOUND

Seattle, Nov. 23.—Departure from this port of the Blue Star steamship Tuscan Star with more than 50,000 boxes of apples will bring the total of water shipments of that fruit to 120,000 boxes to date. Early estimates were that 250,000 boxes would have been shipped by water by November 1. Forty-one thousand tons, or nearly 1,500,000 bushels of wheat of the 1922 crop have gone through this port, divided about equally between Europe and the Orient.

BESSIE DOLLAR AWAITING AID

Three Vessels Sent Out to Assist Are Nearing Scene; Weather Moderates

Giving her position in Lat. 50.57 N., Long. 139.36 W., at 8 o'clock last night, the freighter Bessie Dollar, Capt. McPhail, partially disabled by the bursting of her main steam pipe, reported that she was awaiting assistance. The freighter Stuart Dollar, Capt. Ridley, minus her rudder and assisted by the tug Sea Monarch, did not give her position, but the vessels bound to the aid of the Dollar ships reported positions.

The United States coastguard cutter Haida reported in Lat. 44.55 N., Long. 132.52 W., while the cutter Algonquin reported in Lat. 48.00 N., Long. 131.47 W.

The anxiety that has been felt for the disabled ships has been removed by the latest reports from sea. The seas, though still rough, has moderated. The American cutters Haida and Algonquin should soon be alongside the Dollar ships and the tug Sea Lion is also proceeding at full speed to the scene to assist the distressed vessels. It is expected that the entire fleet will be safely back in port this week-end.

May Come to Esquimalt.

It is probable that the Stuart Dollar will come to Esquimalt as that is the first port of refuge. If the United States Government agrees that Esquimalt is the first port of refuge there will be no duty on the repairs, and Yarrow, Ltd., may get the contract in the competitive bidding for the repair work. The Bessie Dollar, if her steam pipe is repaired sufficiently, may go direct to Vancouver and be repaired while loading for New York.

The Bessie Dollar is riding light, having only about 1,000 tons of Oriental cargo in her holds. She is to complete at Vancouver with a cargo for the Atlantic coast via the Panama Canal.

SAN FRANCISCO LOOKS FOR NEW PORT RECORD

San Francisco, Nov. 23.—Shipping authorities in California expect November will show the port's greatest record for foreign exportations of state products. The statistical records of the Chamber of Commerce compiled for the first two weeks of this month show that already November has surpassed all previous months with the exception of October. When the two final weeks of November have been recorded, Arthur Beyer, statistician, says it will exceed any previous month in the history of the port.

Sailing of the Pacific Mail liner President Taft, scheduled for Oriental ports has been set back to the same hour on Saturday. Delay in sailing is due to the fact that many changes have been made in the vessel's machinery, and also in the accommodations.

The vessel will sail from here in the best possible condition, many new features desired by the operators having been added during her time in port.

Two trans-Pacific liners carrying both freight and passengers to the Orient, have been delayed in their sailings on schedule time because of urgent repairs that kept them on the drydock longer than usual. The President Taft just off the drydock at Oakland, will sail Saturday. The China Mail steamer Nanking will sail on Thanksgiving, having remained in port thirteen days, three days more than the usual schedule. The Nanking is now in drydock, having new tail shaft installed.

"PETE" WHITELOCK ON DECK

Making one of his periodical business trips to the island, C. A. Whitlock, Vancouver manager for the Cunard Line, is in the city today from the Mainland.

The "Continental Limited," Canada's all steel train de luxe, one of the fastest and most famous trains in America and operated in a manner satisfactory to the most fastidious, and with regularity and safety, leaves every day from the Canadian National station, Vancouver, at 7:45 p. m. for the East. Reservations and all details arranged at the Tourist and Travel Bureau, 311 Government Street.

TENDER ESTEVAN LEAVES TO-MORROW

The D. G. S. Estevan, lighthouse tender, will leave to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock for the Christmas trip to all lighthouses within her boundary. She is taking Christmas supplies and the usual lighthouse consignments, and will go via the West Coast, rounding the north end of the island, and working her way back to Victoria down the East Coast.

NEW CLYDE STEAMER FOR UNION COMPANY

Boat of Similar Type to S. S. Venture Building for B. C. Coast Trade

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 23.—Another freight and passenger steamer will be added to the British Columbia coasting fleet early next Summer when a new ship for the Union Steamship Company of British Columbia arrives from the Clyde. John Hargreave, managing director for the company, stated today that a contract had been let by the head offices in Liverpool for construction of a steel steamer of a type similar to the Venture but somewhat larger. She is expected to reach this coast about next May and will go on the North run, replacing the steamer Chelonia. The latter will take the logging run, Napier & Miller, of Glasgow, it is reported, are the successful tenderers. This is the same firm that secured the North Vancouver ferry contract. The contract calls for delivery on the Clyde in April.

ADD FREIGHTER TO ORIENTAL FLEET OF ADMIRAL LINE

Seattle, Nov. 23.—As a result of increased offerings of cargo for North China ports, the Admiral Oriental Line has arranged to place an additional Shipping Board freighter on the route sailing from Seattle in December. The steamship Cross Keys, which has been lying idle in Seattle will be placed on berth in this port December 10 for Dairen, Taku and Shanghai. It was learned from officials of the line.

The commissioning of the Cross Keys will increase the number of freighters operated in the North China trade out of this port to three. The other carriers are the steamships Edmore and Wheatland Montana. The addition of the Cross Keys to the service will enable the Admiral Oriental Line to place in effect a thirty-day sailing schedule from Seattle to North China ports in place of the present forty-five-day schedule.

The Admiral Oriental Line now has a thirty-day sailing schedule between Seattle and South China ports. The cargo movement in the Oriental Line has been increasing both ways, officials of the Admiral Oriental Line said today. The work of reconditioning the Cross Keys for service in the North China trade will begin about December 1.

Rheumatism! try Sloan's

Most aches of rheumatism arise from congestion. Apply Sloan's. Don't rub. It penetrates to the sore spot, starting the blood circulating. This reduces painful congestion—the inflammation vanishes.

Try Sloan's on sprained, bruised muscles, aching backs and neuralgia. Try it on that "cold in the chest."

AUSTRALIA DUE HERE TO-NIGHT ON OUTBOUND TRIP

The Empress of Australia sailed from Vancouver at noon today and is expected to reach Pier 2 here about 6 o'clock to-night, outbound for the Orient. The big ship is taking out about 500 passengers all told, and will carry a capacity cargo.

PART OF WHISKY CARGO ON SEIZED VESSEL PILFERED

Demand Said to Have Been Made for Return of Part of Half Moon's Shipment

Seattle, Nov. 23.—The British Embassy has been asked to demand of the American Government one case of whisky and several additional bottles alleged to have disappeared from the cargo of the Canadian vessel Half Moon while she was in the custody of the prohibition enforcement agency here, attorneys for the owners announce.

The Half Moon, disabled, was brought into American waters July 27 by the tanker Saginaw. At Port Angeles, Wash., a customs inspector seized her cargo of 10 cases of whisky. The whisky was sent here, and in due course of time Attorney-General Daugherty ordered that it be given back to the owners, because the vessel when disabled was bound from one British port to another and had not been in American waters.

Monday the Half Moon was conveyed from Port Angeles into Canadian waters by a coastguard cutter. In her restored cargo, the owners allege, were only 163 cases of whisky and several of these were shy one bottle each.

PLAN DEEPER CHANNEL THROUGH GOLDEN GATE

San Francisco, Nov. 23.—Opening up of the channel through the Golden Gate to San Francisco by cutting a ditch through the bar or blasting out the obstructions between Seara and Centissima rocks, is planned by the Navy and War Departments to overcome obstacles that have resulted in dispatching the fleet of dreadnoughts to southern waters and abandoning San Francisco as the tactical port of the Pacific Fleet.

The obstructions between Seara and Centissima rocks, is planned by the Navy officials, who are mapping the floor of the bay and ocean at the entrance to locate and measure obstructions now hampering navigation.

Two propositions are known to be under consideration. One is the construction of the ditch through the bar, which was recommended by Col. Herbert Deakins, Army district engineer, and the other is proposed to widen the north channel by blasting out obstructions.

SALE OF WORK.

Owing to the inclement weather that prevailed on Wednesday, November 22, many of the finest pieces of needlework prepared by the Ladies' Aid of St. Columba Church for their bazaar held that day were not disposed of. These, augmented by others since completed, will be on sale at 11 a.m. Saturday next, November 27, at 1221 Douglas Street in the store lately occupied by Sam Scott. This will be the last opportunity this year to purchase for Christmas gifts any of the exquisite pieces for which the ladies of St.
Columba have become so famed, and at the reasonable prices always prevailing at St. Columba sales.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Mayor William Marchant yesterday opened a bazaar and sale of work at the Grace Lutheran Church. In a brief address the Mayor pointed out that many people of the Lutheran Church were of Scandinavian descent and emphasized that natives of Sweden and Norway were very desirable settlers in Canada.

The "Visitors' Nights" scheme originated by the Tourist Group of the Chamber of Commerce will be explained to the One Hundred Per Cent Club at the latter's luncheon to be held at the Dominion Hotel tomorrow at 12.45 o'clock. The club will be asked to become responsible for putting on some of the entertainments in the auditorium of the new Chamber of Commerce headquarters during the winter months for the entertainment of visitors to Victoria.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. C. W. McAllister, 30 Cambridge Street, by members and friends of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club on Wednesday. Tables of progressive five hundred were played, and the ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. H. Bentley; first gentlemen, V. J. Dunn; second ladies, Mrs. W. Matheson; second gentlemen, J. D. McNeill; ladies' consolation, Mrs. Hibbertson, and gentlemen's consolation, C. Hoshing. Refreshments were served. Mrs. H. Catterall, in the absence of H. Bird, the president of the club, presented on behalf of the members a handsome mantle clock to Leonard McKenzie with best wishes for life-long happiness. Mr. McKenzie was married to Miss Vogan, of London, England, a week ago.

A splendid concert was provided by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gaiger for the benefit of the inmates of the Aged Men's Home on Tuesday evening. The following programme was successfully carried through: Overture, Miss J. White; song, Mrs. K. A. Gaiger; violin solo, S. Wakeman; recitation, Mrs. T. White; comic songs and dance, A. H. Gaiger; banjo-dance, Miss Menzies and Mr. Heister; humorous song, Dave Dumberton; community singing by everybody; song, Mr. Hadley; cello solo, A. L. Hickling; song and cello accompaniment, Mr. K. Gaiger; impersonations, A. H. Gaiger; conjuring act, F. Merryfield; comic song and dance, Dave Dumberton; banjo quartette, Miss Menzies, Mr. Heister, Mr. Jones and Mr. Gaiger. Mrs. Pike acted as pianist and Mr. Hickling as chairman. After the concert refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed until 11.30 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Gaiger wish to thank all those who so kindly donated refreshments and helped with the success of the programme.

KIWANIS DELEGATION BACK FROM BELLINGHAM

President J. W. Spencer, Harold M. Diggon, A. M. Kirk, Secretary Walter Walker, and B. C. Nicholas, representing the Victoria Kiwanis Club, returned this afternoon from Bellingham, where they attended a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, and the Chamber of Commerce of that city yesterday. Mr. Diggon's slight-of-hand contribution to the programme was greatly appreciated by the audience.

TAXPAYERS' BODY
OPENS OFFICES HERE

The Taxpayers' Protective Association has opened permanent headquarters on Yates Street, one door west of Douglas Street intersection, in order to participate in the December civic election campaign. John Day is acting as secretary of the organization, succeeding George Morphy. A meeting of the association will be held next week for the election of permanent officers.

TRADE LICENSES

The Trades License Commission of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting in 418 Belmont Building at 4.30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon for the purpose of discussing and dealing with the proposals which are being laid before the Legislative Committee at this session of the Legislature whereby it is proposed to levy trade licenses on the basis of rental values.

The Commission was formed by the Chamber when the City Council first broached the matter, and several meetings have been held at which the entire question has been discussed at length.

JUDGMENT FOR PLAINTIFF.
Judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $100 was found by His Honor Judge Lammiman in the County Court yesterday in the case of Dobbie versus Hookum Singh and Basanta, heard yesterday. The action was for trespass on grazing lands leased by the plaintiff. Each of the defendants was ordered to pay damages in the sum of $50. N. W. Whittaker appeared for the plaintiff, and J. P. Walls for the defendants.

STATISTICS COVER
EIGHT YEARSTaxpayers Protective Association Issues Statement
on Expenditures

Victoria taxpayers will be asked by the Taxpayers' Protective Association to consider a statistical statement prepared on the basis of the Civic Expenditure By-Law, detailing the expenditure by departments in the years 1910, 1914 and 1917 to date. From it, the association points out that the total increase between the years 1910 and 1917 is no less than $755,811, or a sum nearly equal to the total expenditure of a dozen years ago.

The figures perhaps require some explanation in fairness to the estimates committees of previous years. The year selected to start the table was one of participation to the great public works programme of 1911-13, as 1910 was scarcely feeling the effect of the increase in population which rendered a big jump in the schools' expenditure warranted. Schools cost in 1910 $129,540 or about one-quarter of the total to-day, while civic salaries were low, the fire department had not been reorganized, and many services now given to ratepayers had not even been considered. The budget of 1914 was a large one, not only based on the extensive development of the city, which had taken place immediately before its introduction, but in keeping with the ambitious municipal projects that were not realized owing to the intervention of the Great War.

Stimulated by the influence of the Civic Retrenchment Association, and by the natural demand for economy the councils of 1915, and two succeeding years cut the budget down materially, and thus in 1917, when the present table begins for the sectional period under review, the budget was based on an aggregate of $1,754,742. That year was apparently the low mark of a tide which has ebbed uncertainly for the last twelve years. Since 1917 the ladder of expenditure has been climbed gradually to the present level, a level which approximates to the previous record Budget of 1914. The published details are prepared to show the ascending scale of city expenditure, the chief items of interest being the augmenting cost of education, and the increased expenditure on streets, bridges and sidewalks.

"FOUND DROWNED"
IS JURY'S VERDICTOriental Employed at Whaling Stations Is Identified

"Found-drowned" was the verdict of the coroner's jury which sat this morning at Sands Funeral Chapel to inquire into the death of a Chinaman named Chew Kay, whose body was found floating in the waters of the Inner Harbor near Johnson Street bridge yesterday morning.

The unfortunate man was last seen by his companions on the afternoon of October 18. He had been employed at the West Coast Whaling Stations and came down from there to Victoria on October 17 in company with a companion who said that he saw Chew Kay the afternoon of October 18 for the last time. He disappeared and no one seemed to know anything about him. Inquiries were made, but no trace of the man was found.

HAYWARD STANDS
PAT ON LEVY ON BUILDINGS HEREWill Not Dodge Issue; His Mayoralty Campaign in Full SwingLytton Mara, Young Business Man, Running for Alderman

Alderman Reginald Hayward's campaign for the Mayoralty of Victoria is now in full swing and, according to the Alderman's campaign committee, is making satisfactory progress. The Hayward campaign, it was learned to-day, will not be of a spectacular nature and will include few public speeches. Alderman Hayward believes that the people of Victoria generally understand his attitude on city affairs and that it will be unnecessary for him to do much talking about it. It is likely, however, that he will speak a few times during the campaign.

Alderman Hayward announced himself to-day that he would stand pat in favor of the taxation of improvements this year because he believed that the city must have more revenue and improvements seemed to be the logical place from which to get it," he said. "I believe now that the city is on the right track financially and a strong policy like that of this year if continued next year will have us well on the road back to civic prosperity. This year and next years are fated to be the most arduous years, I believe, and for that reason a firm, vigorous policy is essential. I have no intention of hedging on the improvement tax. I stand firmly behind it, confident that the voters realize that such a levy is absolutely necessary."

Mr. Mara Favors Levy.

That new blood will be infused in the coming December election made known to-day with the announcement that Lytton Mara, a successful young businessman, would be a candidate for the Council. Mr. Mara, in announcing his candidature, issued this statement:

"I am offering myself as a candidate for alderman in the forthcoming civic election. I am a native son of British Columbia, and have spent the greater part of my life in Victoria. My interests are largely involved in the city, and as well as being in business I am a director of two local industries. For this reason because it is my firm conviction that the younger men should take a more active interest in its welfare, I seek election."

"I am in favor of sane administration with every regard for economy consistent with efficiency. I endorse the improvement tax passed by the majority of the present Council."

Alderman's Possibilities.

The Alderman's election will largely affect Alderman Hayward's plans if he is elected Mayor. He desires, of course, that a majority of the Council shall be in favor of the improvement tax so that the present taxation policy may be maintained next year. If a majority of single-taxers were elected, of course, the improvement levy would be discontinued. Alderman Hayward can count on support for the improvement tax from Aldermen Todd, Leeming and Gillespie, all of whom will remain in the Council for another year without re-election. Aldermen Patrick and Perry also favor the improvement tax, but they must seek re-election in December.

Shanks to Bring Movies.
J. A. Shanks will run for the one-year Council term created by the retirement of Alderman Hayward. Mr. Shanks announces that the main plank in his platform is the introduction of the motion picture industry into Victoria. Mr. Shanks spent some months in California early this year.

TO OPEN FIGHT ON CITY'S BILLAmusement Men Arrive to Oppose New Entertainment Tax

Opposition to the city's private bill which has manifested itself so far is only preliminary to a vigorous fight against other portions of the measure—a fight which will open before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature to-morrow morning, according to word which reached the City Hall to-day.

Representatives of Mainland amusement interests have arrived here to open a campaign against clauses in the city's bill which would give the City Council power to levy on amusements here a tax equal to that now collected by the Provincial Government. While the city has no intention of collecting a tax nearly so heavy as that in force now, amusement men do not want any law allowing a civic amusement tax to get on the statute books.

CHARLES JONES IN ANOTHER TRIUMPH"Trooper O'Neill" Is Presented at ColumbiaWilliam Fox has sent out another highly successful bit of entertainment. "Trooper O'Neill" is roundly applauded as its closing scene flashes from the Columbia Theatre screen.
And rightly so, for rarely has a more evenly balanced photoplay been seen here. Charles Jones, the popular star, who portrays Trooper O'Neill, secured a positive triumph. The rest of the cast is well chosen.The Canadian Northwest Mounted Police is represented with exceptional fidelity, to which the artistic photography adds not a little. Standing out from the well-drawn background, in bold relief, is a swirl of stirring events that whip the action to a high pitch. Through it all, delicately moulded, is a love interest that is most appealing and convincing.Charles Jones has been seen in many pictures, but his performance in "Trooper O'Neill" places him in the front rank of filmdom. His part, a most forceful and heroic one, is done with admirable art.

CAPITOL

As a result of the filming of "The Three Musketeers," by Douglas Fairbanks, which is being shown this week at the Capitol Theatre as the main attraction, twenty-five of the best known players in filmdom are now expert fencers, and this ancient sport has become quite a fad in the movie colony at Hollywood.For three months prior to the making of this picture, every player chosen for a part had to take fencing lessons from Prof. H. J. Uytendhoeve, former world's champion.The purpose of all this was to minimize accidents during the making of the production and also to make the swordsmanship look real on the screen. It was all Doug's idea, and in explaining the need of it he said,
"I only wanted to prevent the accidental and premature death of some of our most promising film actors."
You see, fencing is not at all ladylike.There are sixteen duels in "The Three Musketeers" in some of which a dozen scrappy little swordsmen do their best to stick the hero through the heart.

Among these instructed in the gay arts are:

ROYAL VICTORIA

Facing "Bud" Doyle, as he sat in the place of honor on a long platform were hundreds of disabled soldiers, veterans of the World War.
In the crowd were "buddies" who had fought by Bud's side in the trenches, and gone over the top at the same hour.A hand seemed to catch at his throat and the ex-convict who had "atoned" at the risk of his life for past misdeeds choked suddenly as the faces before him blurred.Some one was speaking, the doctor who had picked up a mangled mass of man in convicts' playhouse, and rebut the repulsive features of a crook into a handsome countenance.There was a ringing cheer as the doctor exclaimed, "The hero of the hour for invaluable services to the cause of the disabled veterans."You will want to cheer him, too, when you see Thomas H. Ince's
"Skin Deep," at the Royal Victoria Theatre again to-day.

DOMINION

It seems a far cry from impersonating the avatar, or descendant of some racial deity, to participating in a Harvard boat race—but such is the transition required of Rodolph Valentino, star of "The Young Rajah," a Paramount picture which is now showing at the Dominion Theatre.In vision scenes he is presented as Krishna and Arjuna, in the highly decorative and fanciful attire of those characters of ancient Hindu literature, while in the main story he is a popular young university man, and athlete and student.In reality he is a rajah who for certain reasons is left with farming people in America to be raised and educated. The fascinating story embodies a delightful romance and Wanda Hawley interprets the feminine half of this with her accustomed charm.The boat racing scenes were made near

PLAYHOUSE OFFERS FINE ATTRACTION"The Balkan Princess" a Sparkling Comic OperaBright and sparkling, as the name implies, "The Balkan Princess," the comic opera so admirably played last week by the popular company holding the boards at the Playhouse, again made a tremendous hit at the Yates Street theatre last night, and the show will be presented again tonight, Friday and Saturday evenings, with a Saturday matinee.Dull care flies away with a visit to the Playhouse. The bright interior, the comfort and attractiveness of the place, and the excellent offerings staged, with particular detail as to the tastes of Victoria audiences, all go to form one of the most delightful attractions, and the plays themselves are something that have never failed to draw packed houses. Last week the people were turned away for lack of seating accommodation for "The Balkan Princess."The music and settings are delightful and the scene takes the spectator far off to distant and strange lands.
The play is one that made a big hit in the Old Country and had lengthy runs in the world's most noted theatres.All the human emotions and those which appeal mostly to the romantic are characterized in this choice offering. Round after round of applause greeted the various features of the play at last night's performance, and it is safe to say that the Playhouse will be crowded at each of the performances to be given during the balance of this week.HUNDREDS OF CARS OF B. C. FRUIT HELD BUT NO MARKETPrice This Year Does Not Pay for Picking Let Alone Marketing, Col. Lister SaysFruit producers in the interior of B.C. are faced with prices less than the cost of production this year because Americans are dumping their fruit on the Prairie markets at less than the actual cost of production, Col.Fred Lister, Conservative member for Kaslo, told the Legislature in urging support for his motion calling on the Dominion Government to re-enact the anti-dumping legislation at the earliest possible moment.Col. Lister said that last year with the anti-dumping clause in effect, the price which averaged $1.25 a box for apples was low enough, but this year the return to the growers in the Creston district was only 50 cents a box, not sufficient to pay the marketing expenses of the crop and in some instances not enough to pay the freight.In the Creston Valley, he went on, several farmers did not have sufficient money to hire pickers to pick their crops. The fruitgrowers' organization offered to take the crop off their hands, but then found that the fruit was not worth the money it took to pick it.The colonel claimed that the fruit industry in B.C. was entitled to protection and must have a certain amount of it. He said it was an industry which a man had to have a great deal of money to go into and he must wait for a long time before he got any return."My information is that 724 cars of apples have gone through King's Gate from Wenatchee to the Prairies while we have hundreds of cars we can't sell," Col. Lister continued.
"And this is only a feasible to what comes through Port of the Great Northern."He asserted that hundreds of tons of tomatoes and cucumbers rotted on the ground because it did not pay to pick them.Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, adjourned the debate.WRONG WAR HISTORY

ing in the budget debate in the Legislature last night, endorsed the declaration of Premier Oliver that if the Province were to vote a large sum of money to build the University of B.C., the Province should have something to say about the conduct of the University."We have to recognize the fact that the means of the Province are limited, and that many of the names on that list, which are delivered here would have been left off if it had been pointed out to the persons signing that for each student attending the University, $1 individual taxpayers would have to pay an additional $5," the Canon said.He also agreed with the contention of the Premier that the individual obtaining the advantage of education at the University should contribute to the cost and perhaps pay the whole cost."I agree with the declaration that if the Province should make a grant to the University it should have some say as to how that money is spent, and should have something to say about the kind of education that is given," the Canon went on.Declaring that there was some teaching that should not be given its use in B.C. colleges because it

Maroons Pick Off Their Initial Win

Vancouver Tramped On Seattle When Roy Riecky Was Injured and Had to Retire Three Minutes After Game Started; Maroons' Win Brings Mets Up With Jerk and Puts Them Even With Victoria For First Place

Seattle, Nov. 23.—Vancouver's maroon hockey players went through the Seattle defence like a Kansas cyclone last night and the Northerners easily took the game 5-2.

Lloyd Cook had his men fighting mad and they outtrashed their opponents from goal to goal. Within three minutes after play started, Skinner hung up the first Maroon marker, completely puzzling the Seattle defence men. Captain Cook scored a few moments later with a fast one between the feet of Goalie Holmes. Both Cook and Skinner scored again in the second period and in the third Bouchard hung up the last score on a beautiful pass from Captain Cook.

The Mets braced in the second period but the shots the Seattle forwards rained from the blue line were stopped by Goalie Reed, who was at top form. Just before the close of the period Brien managed to elude the vigilant Vancouver goalie and scored in a pass from Riley. Morris with Brien's assistance duplicated the feat in the final period.

Reed Looked Good. Reed's work at the net was especially pleasing and revealed the fact that the young substitute is a cool and experienced hand at the game. Holmes, on the other hand, was not quite himself, the Maroons continually drawing him from the net and then shooting past him.

There is room for a good alibi over the Mets' defeat. Roy Riecky took a terrific clout across the foot and it pained him so much that he could not stand on it and had to leave the ice. The accident happened three minutes after the play started. It was while Riecky was hobbling about on the ice that Vancouver rushed through and scored their first counter.

Fraser Filled In. An examination of Riecky's foot disclosed the fact that he could not return to the ice. Fraser dropped back on the defence with Bobby Rowe. The loss of Riecky was a blow to the Mets. Riecky does about seventy-five per cent. of the rushing by the Seattle defence and his side of the defence is almost invulnerable to attack. Fraser did not fill Riecky's shoes and the Maroons were rushing in on top of Holmes so fast that he had great difficulty in clearing most of the shots.

The Seattle forwards tried desperately to break up the Vancouver rushes. The forwards back-checked vigorously but the defence did not hold up.

Charley Reed turned in a sparkling game and one mathematician says that Frank Foyston shot 76 times at the Vancouver goalie during the evening.

Art Duncan Bruised. Vancouver did not escape the battle without injury. Art Duncan, who turned in a game, had his shoulder badly bruised and was in great pain during much of the game. The teams were as follows:

SOLDIER JONES IS LINED UP FOR BOUT

London, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—"Soldier" Jones, the Canadian pugilist, has been matched against the Newcastle cruiserweight fighter, Charley Welford, for a 20-round bout at catchweights for 160 pounds a side and a purse. The fight is to take place at Newcastle, South Shields, or Wallend, in January.

Carpentier May Again Be Champion; A Reaction Now In Favor of Siki

Paris, Nov. 23.—Georges Carpentier, still suffering from bad hands, is unable to resume training, but there is much talk in sporting circles of a match between Georges and Joe Beckett, of England, as well as a great deal of speculation as to whether Carpentier will enter the competition officially opened by the Boxing Federation for the light-heavyweight title, made vacant by the disqualification of "Battling" Siki, conqueror of Carpentier. Neither Carpentier nor his manager, Francois Descamps, however, is ready to tell their plans.

The sporting experts are agreed that no one worthy of meeting Carpentier for the title is in sight and that any match arranged with the available material would be likely to prove ridiculous. However, they realize that Georges must box someone or retire.

A curious effect of the announcement of the competition is an apparent reaction in favor of Siki. Some sporting writers are beginning to express the view that the Federation went rather fast and somewhat far in punishing him for his unseemly behavior. They say that if Siki lost his head he was helped to do so by the excessive attention he received after his victory over Carpentier.

SIKI'S LIFE STORY

By Battling Siki

As Told to Milton Brenner, NEA Staff Correspondent

CHAPTER SIX—The Carpentier Fight

The long road to boxing glory and some money, too, came to a turning in December, 1921. I finally got into the ring with one of the big fighters of France.

It was Paul Journee. Sporting writers came to see him "kill the black." But I won on points in thirteen rounds. Then, I had three fights which gave me the chance to force Carpentier to fight me.

In January, I beat Rogers in twelve rounds, winning on points. I out-pointed Journee again in March. Finally, on June 23, I beat Marcel Nilles, the real heavyweight champion of France, winning on points in fifteen rounds.

Nilles was my most important opponent. He often tried to meet Carpentier, but Descamps always dodged him. They said after I beat him that Nilles broke both wrists punching my head. All I know is he is a game fighter and I learned a lot by fighting him.

Paris Laughs at Him. That takes us up to the meeting with Georges. The Paris crowd laughed at me in the first two rounds.

Sporting writers said I was afraid, and that is why I crouched. They had said the fight would end in the first round. I made up my mind, no matter what happened, I wouldn't end in the first round nor the second.

I knew when it came to science Georges had me beat. I knew all about his swiftness. And they said he could punch awfully hard. I tried to square off in such a way that he could not hit me at all, and if he did he would hit my head in places where a boxer would not follow.

Well, Georges punched a number of times when I thought he couldn't, and he gave me all he had, but I soon saw it wasn't enough. His punch wasn't going to knock me out.

I had him sized up, saw what he had and believed my strength superior, my punch at least equal.

Georges Goes Down. I sailed in, and the rest you know. He was courageous, very courageous. He took an awful beating without a whimper, and kept coming in for more until he didn't know where he was at.

Beating him made me the champion heavyweight of Europe and the middleweight champion of the world. That talk about the fighting chimpanzee is crazy. The point is not the beauty or ugliness of my manner in the ring. The point is I won fairly by taking the best Georges could give, and returning blow for blow when I saw the chance.

I want to meet more big men. I make no predictions. I simply fight my best. Who and where I fight next, that is up to Charley Hellers. He's my manager, and when he says fight, I fight.

Wants Dempsey Go. If he says "Siki, you must get ready to fight Jack Dempsey," I would get ready. Dempsey is a mountain of a man and a wonderful boxer and a great puncher and quick as a cat and all the rest of it, but I would take a chance.

I would try to make it lively for Monsieur Dempsey. I would do more. I would try to bring the world's championship to France, for me—I am French.

I want to go on fighting and make money and save it. Then, some day, when I am beaten, as all fighters are, I plan to settle down in the country in France with my wife and be a farmer. I like to see things growing—calves, babies, chickens and trees.

THE END.

Fitz's Continue Their March By Beating Bays

Wednesday's League Standing.

	P. W. L.	P. W. L.	P. W. L.	P. W. L.
Weller's	7	4	2	1
Fitz's	7	4	2	1
Hudson's	8	2	4	2
Garrison	8	2	4	2

The signal went out in the Wednesday League, "Look out for Fitz's," but a lot of folk didn't take much notice of it. Last week Fitz's stepped on Weller's, the league leaders, and sent them for a trip down the sidewalk, and yesterday they topped about the Hudson's Bay and toppled them over by a 3-2 score. As a result Fitz's are now out of the cellar, and are runners up to Weller's. Right now it begins to look like Fitz's are the real thing.

The pool-sharks entered the league to make a fourth team, and they took several trimmings before they got their dukes up and started to fight. Now they seem to be the cock of the walk.

The race for the Pendray Cup, emblematic of the Wednesday League championship, has developed into a very close affair, and only three points separate the top dogs from the mice in the cellar. The games are particularly close, and are drawing large crowds of spectators.

Weller's Still on Top. Weller's managed to maintain their position at the top of the deck as a result of their 1-0 victory over the Garrison. It was a nip and tuck affair with both teams fighting vigorously for an advantage. They reached the half time interval with a goal having been scored. The game was a close one, and it resulted from a misjudged wallop by Waggett, the Garrison goalie. Weller's were awarded a corner, and Harper sent a low skimming shot right across the goal-mouth. Waggett jumped to fist the ball out, but he did not connect squarely, and the ball skidded off his knuckles into his own net.

The game was exceptionally close, and both goalies pulled some sensational saves. Weller's had George Lomas, a former international, between the uprights, and he showed some rare form in keeping the leather sphere from beating him.

In the first half the game between Fitz's and the Bays play was very even, although the Bays succeeded in scoring two goals to their opponent's one. The Bays got their first goal by a nice bit of combination, the centre half swinging the ball out to Caslake at outside right. He took the ball down the wing, and swung a beautiful pass to centre, where Alcock (Concluded on page 17.)

POSTIES TROUNCED THE FIREFIGHTERS

The shrill screech of the Firemen's sirens announced the first victory that the Post office football eleven secured this year. They defeated the fire protectors at Central Park yesterday afternoon to the melody of 3 to 1.

The Firemen, noted for their speed, were surprised at yesterday's result. They fully expected to give the letter carriers a trouncing, and were turned out in brilliant array and secured three goals before the fire fighters realized they had been playing for two periods.

The playing was lively and fast, and Scotty MacKay, the snappy little boxer, placed the sphere before the post a few minutes after the start. He repeated the performance again in the second period. Sandy Turner performed in a brilliant manner for the fire brigade, scoring on a free kick with a single shot.

This was the only goal the Firemen secured but the Posties managed to beat the Firemen's defence again. They secured a penalty near the goal and Wells placed a neat one between the posts. Horn referred.

SAYS TO PRACTISE. All members of the J. B. A. A. senior rugby squad are requested to attend a practise to be held to-night at the clubrooms at 8 o'clock.

Gallery Is Thrilled By Hagen's Shots

British Open Golf Champion Has Wonderful Tee Shot and Is Deadly and Daring With His Putter; Made Afternoon Round In 69, One Under Course Record; New Mark, However, Will Not Be Allowed; Hagen and Black Won 4 and 3

Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, and Dave Black, the Vancouver pro, won the 36-hole exhibition match at the Colwood Golf Club yesterday by four up and three to play. Hagen and Black were victors over Willie Black, of Colwood, and Phil Taylor, of Oak Bay, in a very interesting match, filled with spectacular playing by the visiting champion.

Strange to the course, Hagen turned in a 71 in the morning round, and in the afternoon his card showed a 69. This was one under the course record of 70, held by Willie Black. Hagen's mark, however, will not be allowed to stand because a temporary fifth tee was used, and some of Hagen's putts were not holed out.

Under perfect weather conditions Victorians saw the greatest of American golfers in action on the course of the Colwood Golf and Country Club. The absence of Joe Kirkwood left possibly a better opportunity to watch Hagen and his methods.

Being the British Open Champion, twice the American Open Champion (1914 and 1919), Western Open Champion 1916, Champion of the American Professional Golfers' Association, and having numerous lesser titles to his credit, it goes without saying that Hagen's methods are sound, and to see them was a golfing treat. His play in the essence of security and firmness, there being no slipping or twisting of the club. His left hand is well over the club shaft, the right slightly under the two v's, pointing over the right shoulder. From this one would expect more of the shut face with the wooden clubs than there is. However he is inclined that way, for where off the straight, which is very seldom, he will usually find the left of the fairway. He will seldom slice by accident. His swing with wood is full, always going back to the horizontal, but never any farther. He is strikingly accurate in this respect. Being heavier on the left foot produces the low flying ball, and the deep faces of his wooden clubs assist in this and in getting the unusually long run.

Only Outdistanced Once. With the exception of one occasion on the 12th hole in the afternoon round, when the club head was only connected with the ball and skied it, Hagen was never outdistanced from the tee. He usually had some yards to spare. So long was he that only one hole the 14th called for wood (a spoon) for his second shot, while long irons were only needed on the 10th and 12th. The majority of his seconds were mashie-niblicks.

Hagen's iron work is entirely different, no low flying push shots for him. He believes in the high air route to the green, and the maximum carry and the minimum run. He employs a fairly full swing and a punch that speaks of incredible distances. By the way it was noticeable that the nearer he got to the hole the more the back of the left hand moved round from over the shaft to the direction of the hole, until when putting the ball he had it top and the knuckles directly to the hole.

Has No Nerves. On the green Hagen is consistently very good, entirely without nerves. He uses the creak type of putter. He is a great observer of the lay and condition of the green, taking nothing for granted he carefully removes any possible obstruction, and is well paid for the trouble. Once decided as to the stroke he requires, he swings, he hits boldly and firmly for the back of the hole. Always up, nearly always in. One feels that a ten-footer could be made, very seldom does he. Obviously Hagen can run his own on the green in any company.

The Right Temperament. Temperamentally Hagen has nothing to desire. No golf shot, or trick, will put him out of countenance. The rough goes the same way as the smooth, with possibly a slightly broader smile, forgotten as soon as done. He only has one thought and that is for the next shot. He is a man who can lose as gracefully as he can win. His bearing and pluck in the British open at Deal in 1920, will stand repeating. Having been followed round by crowds believing him to be a possible winner, he saw them slipping away in dozens, eventually commencing his last 18 holes alone with his partner, and no possible chance of finishing in the first 40 or 50, he plugged along against a frightful gale, each hole only making things the blacker for him, and to his everlasting credit finished and turned in his card in the presence of a large and not very friendly crowd. Hagen, the American, hope, was posted somewhere about fifty-third and with every Dick, Tom and Harry ahead of him. It was a bitter pill but he smothered it and would be back again. Hagen may have himself forgotten this trial, but there are those who will remember it for it is a lesson in how to win.

The Match. At the first hole in the morning round Taylor was unfortunate in touching his ball when putting, costing him a stroke, when otherwise he would have won the hole. Hagen's approach on this hole was one of his few mistakes, a full mashie taking him well beyond the green.

At the third, Taylor was again unfortunate in his putting, staying on the lip of the hole for a three. Hagen's beautiful tee shot from the (Concluded on page 17.)

TO DEFEND TITLE

HARRY GREB

New York, Nov. 23.—Gene Tunney, of New York, will have a chance to regain the light-heavyweight title he lost last May to Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden, December 23. Terms for the match were accepted to-day by both men.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL TRIM OAK BAY HIGH

The University School registered another win to its credit yesterday when it defeated the Oak Bay High School team by the overwhelming score of twenty-seven to three. The University boys were superior to Oak Bay in every department of the game. For the first few minutes the High School pressed, and it looked as though a good game was to be played, but their advantage was short lived as the University forwards got down to work and the play was at the other end of the field for the rest of the game.

The score at half time was eleven to nothing, which had been made up of two tries and one goal.

For the University, Pollard's drop kicking was excellent, converting three tries. For the High School Willis and Fell were the outstanding players, while for the military school the whole team played a good game. F. A. Sparks refereed.

RECORD CROWD WILL SEE ARGOS BATTLE QUEEN'S SATURDAY

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Granting that the weather is fine all football attendance records in Canada will be broken here on Saturday when the Queen's team plays Argonauts in the Eastern final. The officials in charge have been deluged with applications for seats.

TOURING BALL TEAM WINS ANOTHER GAME

Osaki, Japan, Nov. 23.—The all-star American baseball team on tour today defeated Koto University fourteen to nothing. The visitors made fifteen hits and no errors, while the home nine had five hits and six errors.

GREAT WINTER SHOW OPENS IN TORONTO

Horse Show Is Larger Than National Show in New York, Many Entries

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Laying claim to being the best and biggest of its kind on the continent of America, if not in the world, the Royal Agricultural Winter Show opened its gates yesterday for the first time. Here are some of the high spots of the fair.

The horse show is bigger than the Madison Square Garden show, of which the New Yorkers are so proud. It has 150 exhibitors and 1,500 entries; there are over 1,000 dairy cattle on view; there are 450 beef and market cattle; the sheep exhibit has 600 entries and there are more than 600 entries in the swine section.

WESTERN GOLF BODY TO BE FORMED AT A WINNIPEG MEETING

Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—For the purpose of forming a Western Golf Association it is probable that a conference will be held here in January. This was suggested at a meeting of the Manitoba Golf Association last night when it was agreed that owing to the rapid progress the game had made in the West that a western association was necessary if the formation of the new association is successful a tournament will be arranged for 1925.

AIMED TO MAKE SIKI GENTLEMAN BY ADVICE

Hellers, Manager of Black Battler, Accepts Ruling of Boxing Federation

Paris, Nov. 23.—M. Hellers, manager of Battling Siki, in an interview published in L'Aurore, says he accepts the action of the French Boxing Federation in withdrawing the license of Siki and asserts: "By my work I made him a world champion. I should have liked, by my advice to make him a gentleman."

The newspaper learns that Siki's license was cancelled because of the boxer's assault on the manager of Maurice Prunier, and because of his behavior in public places in Paris and in the provinces.

Another reason advanced was that Siki some time ago struck a woman. The Petit Parisien says that Siki has been approached by a German motion picture firm with a view to having him appear in a film, but that he has not yet answered.

VICTORIA BASKETERS TO PLAY ELK LAKE

Rithets and Times to Play Suburban Teams

This evening two teams from Rithets and The Times will journey to Royal Oak to play the Elk Lake "A" and "B" Basketball Club. The team from Rithets will engage in the tussle with the senior team, while The Times boys will take on the intermediate section.

Two good games are expected, as both the city teams have a reputation, while the Elk Lake quintettes have cleaned up everything around their district, and are now anxious to take a crack at the city teams. However, both Rithets and The Times are sending out fast quintettes and promise to give their country brothers a good run for their money. The teams will line up as follows:

E. L. A. A.—"A" team: Fayerberg, Bull, Jones, Kersey and Robinson.

Rithets—Hole, Speck, Hughes, Erickson and Main.

E. L. A. A.—"B" team: Davies, Mutch, Blackburn, S. Bates and W. Bates.

The Times team will be picked from the following: I. Hastings, S. Hopkins, A. Hemmingway, J. Menkis, L. Sallaway and W. Yaemans.

ST. PATS GETTING READY FOR JAUNT

World's Champions Leaving Toronto Saturday for Trip to Pacific Coast

Toronto, Nov. 23.—St. Patricks Stanley Cupholders, held their first practice yesterday morning. All of last year's players were on hand with the exception of Dr. Rod Smylie, who may not be able to devote the time to the game this season. In addition there were Scott and Denlor of last season's Junior Auro Lee team. Neil McMillen, an amateur from North Battleford, Sask., also turned out.

The champions will practice daily and will leave next Saturday night for their trip West, accompanied by Business Manager George O'Donoghue, Secretary Hamby and Trainer Popp. Their first stop will be at Winnipeg next Tuesday where they will play Regina. From there they go to Victoria, Vancouver, Seattle, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina.

WINNIPEG ALL-STARS BEATEN BY CLEVELAND

Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—The Cleveland, Ohio, sextette won a spectacular overtime hockey game from the Winnipeg All-Stars after eight minutes of extra play in a desperately fought battle here last night, 5-4.

The game was hard fought throughout, with the visitors having the edge in the first two periods, when they took a 4 to 2 lead, but the locals outplayed them in the final session and tied up the count.

relieving unemployment. This, particularly because there could be no more doles and work of such a nature had to be done. But the Government must get value for its money.

Immigration.

The Government leader spoke of immigration and colonization matters. There was unbalanced condition in the Province, he contended, with too many people in the cities and not enough in the country.

"I am not in favor of unlimited immigration," he announced, "but I think there is a general feeling that there should be a transplanting of people from the congested districts of the Old Land and a filling up of our waste places. This is in the cause of humanity. But Canada must not be sucked dry, like an orange. The Dominion should be the homeland of the new citizens; the population should be tied to the country and their interests centered here. The Federal Government is co-operating with the Imperial, and the Imperial in turn with the Western Canada Colonization Association. The policy of British Columbia should be to encourage only those with sufficient capital to start life anew, so that they may not become a burden upon the treasury."

Of the three members of the Opposition who had participated in the budget debate, none had offered a single suggestion for the betterment of conditions in the Province, said the Premier. The member for Cranbrook, in his maiden speech, had criticized the roads of his district, but these were as good as could be found in the country, said the Government leader.

"Why, personally, I travelled as fast as 40 or 50 miles an hour on those roads this Summer, and they were in the best of condition," he explained.

Mr. Jones: Was that the afternoon of the election? (Laughter.)

Premier Oliver: At different times. I also went over the road from Cranbrook to Yakh, which this Government built, and it was in perfect shape.

Mr. Wallinger: That is the only road your Government built in the whole district.

Premier Oliver: Perhaps, but we made good roads out of many old trails.

The Premier spoke of the Cranbrook member's plea for a reduction of taxation on mining properties, and said:

"Why should there be this need when up to recently we had a Government agent (Mr. Wallinger) there who looked after the interests of the mining fraternity? He even notified them when to abandon claims and re-stake them."

"And as to his remark that civil servants should not be dismissed without the reasons being given, I venture that the case he had in mind was his own."

Mr. Wallinger: Well, why not? Major Burde: Why shouldn't he? Premier Oliver: Sometimes it is in the best interests of the civil servant that the reasons be withheld.

Civil Service.

Regarding Mr. Wallinger's claim that the customary statutory increases to civil servants should not be cut off, the Government leader said that no salaries had been reduced when cuts in all other branches of employment had been made. Why should there be increases?

"I will also say this—although it will not make me popular," he continued, "there are no better paid employees anywhere than the civil servants, considering the service rendered. There are 100 applications for every vacancy. If the employment is not agreeable why are so many anxious to get a Government job?"

Major Burde: Do any vacancies ever occur?

Premier Oliver: They don't last long. And we have been accused of all sorts of things in connection with patronage, but I will say that in thirteen years the Conservatives never appointed a Liberal to a job. I will give a Government job to a Liberal rather than to a Conservative until there is at least a fair balance. Mr. Bowser: You are doing fairly well.

Premier Oliver: Thanks; I think that is the first time the Leader of the Opposition has said a kind thing about us.

He then turned his attention to remarks of J. W. Jones, Conservative member for South Okanagan, who said that taxation was too high.

"I agree," said the Premier. Mr. Jones: But you don't do anything to relieve the situation. Premier Oliver: You made it impossible through your reckless spending, but we are not shirking our share of the responsibility.

Premier Oliver: You made it impossible through your reckless spending, but we are not shirking our share of the responsibility. He explained that the Conservative administration had to reserve a deficit of $18,000,000 in six years, which was twice as great as that of the present Government for the same period. The Bowser budget of 1918 called for the spending of $11,000,000.

Not a Schoolmaster.

Mr. Jones: What was the expenditure? Premier Oliver: It is beyond me to act as a collector of information for my honorable friends. I am not enough of a schoolmaster for that.

Mr. Jones: Is that another official position you have taken? Premier Oliver: I may have a good deal of egotism, but I have a good deal of egotism, but not enough to think I could teach my honorable friend anything.

Answering opposition criticism that capital would not invest in B. C. On the contrary, the B. C. Gazette in 30 days showed that new companies were incorporated with a capitalization of $2,360,000. Mr. Jones asked the Premier to pay up capital, and was instructed by the Premier to consult the registrar of joint-stock companies.

Mr. Oliver: There has been a building boom in the country, too, and I understand an increase in the population of my honorable friend's constituency.

Mr. Uphill: You're not blaming him for that, are you?

School Enrolment.

The Premier added that the school enrolment had increased from 44,570 in 1916 to 55,950 in 1921, or thirty-three per cent. This was not a bad advertisement for the country, he added.

Premier Oliver denied Mr. Jones's statement that the Government had been profligate in handling the Conservation Fund and the other hand, the South Okanagan member well knew that the Government had saved the fruit industry.

Dealing with Land Settlement Board affairs, the speaker outlined the Government policy in dealing with soldier settlement. He explained how he had attended the Premier's conference at Ottawa in 1918 and disagreed with the policy of Premier Meighen. Ottawa had been disposed to disband the veterans as fast as possible, he claimed, and this attitude of indifference had marked the late Federal Government's action all the way through.

"I told Sir Thomas White, then Minister of Finance, that if he spent the amount of his last Victory Loan, over $500,000,000, to settle returned soldiers on the land it would be good work," recounted the Premier. "However, they sent $3,000 veterans more to B. C. than enlisted here and this was our problem."

He went into details of the Merville scheme and claimed that no government in Canada had done so much for the veterans as his own, despite claims made by Colonel Lister and others to the contrary. He invited the colonel to dispute this, the latter replying that he would when his turn came to speak.

Merville.

The Premier said the Opposition went into Merville sowing seeds of discontent, solely for political purposes; it was a shame to do so.

He then quoted reports to show that one Merville veteran had earned $2,561 in wages in four years; had ten acres of his fifty cleared; had received large progress loans, $956 heart" was responsible for his Government not collecting unpaid taxes. The Premier was inclined to think the heart was a "glad." His big-heartedness was such that he had practically confiscated lands of homesteaders under legislation passed in 1918.

He said it was no wonder that the Opposition left no over-draft at the bank when they went out of power, because the banks did not approve of the financial policy of the Government.

In a few years they had gone back $14,000,000, and the revenue had been cut in half.

At this point both sides indulged in some jockeying. The Premier said his Government had never been turned down by the banks once, but had been able to borrow $8,000,000.

Mr. Bowser: You ought to be ashamed.

Premier Oliver: Our credit was good.

Mr. Jones: But they are cutting you down.

Premier Oliver: By the voluntary action of our Government.

Mr. Bowser: You are borrowing in New York.

Premier Oliver: So did you, but you had to pay heavy underwriters' commissions.

The Government leader admitted that taxes had been increased, but claimed this was necessitated by the obligations inherited from the Conservative Government. This increased revenue from the personal property tax and other sources had not amounted to sufficient to pay the interest on the P. G. E. bonds. And, further, the present Government's deficit of one-half that of the late Government left little room for criticism.

He spoke of Mr. Jones's charge that capital would not invest in B. C. On the contrary, the B. C. Gazette in 30 days showed that new companies were incorporated with a capitalization of $2,360,000. Mr. Jones asked the Premier to pay up capital, and was instructed by the Premier to consult the registrar of joint-stock companies.

Mr. Oliver: There has been a building boom in the country, too, and I understand an increase in the population of my honorable friend's constituency.

Mr. Uphill: You're not blaming him for that, are you?

The Premier added that the school enrolment had increased from 44,570 in 1916 to 55,950 in 1921, or thirty-three per cent. This was not a bad advertisement for the country, he added.

Premier Oliver denied Mr. Jones's statement that the Government had been profligate in handling the Conservation Fund and the other hand, the South Okanagan member well knew that the Government had saved the fruit industry.

He invited the colonel to dispute this, the latter replying that he would when his turn came to speak.

Merville.

The Premier said the Opposition went into Merville sowing seeds of discontent, solely for political purposes; it was a shame to do so.

He then quoted reports to show that one Merville veteran had earned $2,561 in wages in four years; had ten acres of his fifty cleared; had received large progress loans, $956 worth of stock and now had a farm appraised at $2,300, upon which the Government had granted the statutory rebate of $500.

Other instances were quoted, one being of a man whose place was appraised at less than $500, so that he received his land for nothing.

An altercation occurred between the two leaders, the Premier accusing Mr. Bowser of agreeing to take no action regarding Merville until after the Government had received a report from the settlers and then breaking his word. Mr. Bowser denied this, the Premier asserting that a delegation from Merville had so informed him.

Mr. Bowser said that the delegation was from the Courtenay Board of Trade.

Premier Oliver: Oh, I know the Leader of the Opposition is not enjoying himself this afternoon.

Industrial Loans.

He then refuted statements that eighty or ninety per cent of the Government's industrial loans would turn out worthless, and referred to the $250,000 loan made to the Western Canada Cordage Company, which concern was composed of returned soldiers and was turning out binder-twine highly favored by Delta farmers. Another loan of $100,000 went to the Sidney Rubber Roofing Company, which establishment was working day and night to fill orders.

Mr. Bowser: But they are in arrears.

Premier Oliver: Maybe, but will you say these companies are not worth the amounts mentioned?

He spoke of the loan to a mill at Quenel, in connection with which Mr. Bowser said the Government received nothing but the insurance after the mill burned down.

Premier Oliver: The loan was all right.

Hon. Mr. Hart: Paid in full.

Mr. Bowser: Major Martyn's report says differently.

Premier Oliver: What about the timber limits we got?

Mr. Bowser: Not worth anything.

Premier Oliver: (with a heave). Neither is my honorable friend worth anything. (Laughter.)

He said the Sumas Reclamation project was not open to criticism. Already 7,000 acres had been made safe against floods and the work would turn out all right. In fact, he added, the member for Dewdney (Mr. Catherwood) was urging dyking work which was far more dangerous than Sumas.

Dealing with taxation, the Premier asked where the extra burden was to be placed. The increased cost of education and mothers' pensions ate up the enormous increase in taxation, and the revenue from mines, forests and other sources was already mortgaged.

Timber Operation.

He showed that in 1921 the timber interests had operated at a loss of sixty-six cents per thousand and this year at the small profit of twenty odd cents, without making any allowance for capital invested.

Mr. Guthrie: Why not lower the profit?

Premier Oliver: How can you when there is no profit?

Mr. Neslund: How, then, can their managers build fine homes?

Premier Oliver: The managers might, but not the stockholders; they may have money invested which must be protected.

He charged that the Legislature must solve the taxation problem if it was to continue to represent the people. The suggestion had been made that the income tax should solve the difficulty, he continued, but at present men on the land were paying more taxes in many instances than professional men earning five times as much.

Mr. McRae (Conservative): Why not reverse the situation?

Premier Oliver: Will my friend support that?

Mr. McRae: Yes, if the professional man is to pay as well as the farmer.

Premier Oliver: Now that is just where I want my friend. When we proposed such a step he and his colleagues opposed it.

Mr. McRae: That is not right.

Mr. Bowser: When did you say such a thing?

Premier Oliver: I didn't say when, but that was our attitude.

Prince Rupert Courthouse.

He spoke of Mr. Bowser's criticism of the $400,000 courthouse at Prince Rupert, and said that sum was only half of the amount appropriated by the late Government for the same purpose, when the auctioneer of Prince Rupert lots used the promise as an inducement to prospective purchasers to buy property.

"My memory is too long for the Opposition leader," he chuckled.

Next, the Premier asked where were the boasted roads built by the late Government.

Mr. Wallinger: Gone.

Premier Oliver: Sure, they were not good enough to last.

Other Opposition members interjected remarks, whereupon Major Burde rose to a point of order, and suggested that six Opposition hecklers were too many to interrupt the Premier at one time, although doubtless the Government leader could "lick them all." (Laughter.)

"Up bobbed the P. G. E. ghost again, and the letter written by Mr. Bowser to the late Premier Brewster, endorsing the proposed settlement of the latter with Foley, Welch & Stewart."

Mr. Pooley asked to see the letter, which request was granted. The Esquimalt member charged breach of confidence. The Premier returned that Mr. Bowser had broken confidence first.

Everybody Critical.

Mention was made of a $500,000 campaign fund from P. G. E. sources.

Mr. Pooley: What became of the rest of the $500,000?

Mr. Guthrie: What about my resolution yesterday in this regard?

Premier Oliver: Ruled out of order by Mr. Speaker, because the House cannot consider a report of a standstill nature by an irresponsible newspaper. But let the member make charges himself, and produce evidence, and he will get an investigation.

Mr. Guthrie: Yes, it depends upon whose ox is being gored.

In this connection the Premier said that the journal which had published the statements regarding Hon. M. Sloan had also printed the statement that the Sullivan report on the P. G. E. had cost $25,000.

"As a matter of fact, I showed that the report cost less than $5,000. That is the kind of a sheet it is," he caustically remarked.

IRREDUCIBLE MINIMUM.

Even an efficiency expert can't reduce the number whose co-operation is required in the making of a satisfactory kiss.

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate, so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

Memorandum Prepared by B. C. Chiropractors' Association

To the Hon. Members of the Legislature of the Province of British Columbia, Nov. 1922

It has been brought to our notice that a Memorandum prepared by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia, has been circulated among your Honourable Body, for the purpose of securing your support against the Chiropractic Bill (No. 28) that is now before you.

This Memorandum is based entirely on findings of the Select Committee appointed by Your Honourable Body in 1921 to examine into the Chiropractic Bill, the Optometrists Bill, and the Druggists' Physicians' Bill of that date.

We respectfully submit that the findings of that Committee do not constitute a fair report on our case; in as much as we were denied the right to present the testimony of patients, either orally or in writing.

The only manner in which it is possible for us to demonstrate, not only that we do cure the sick in hundreds of cases where medical treatment has failed, but that we are also fully able to recognize disease as the Medical Profession is by the production of actual cases.

We would respectfully point out that medical diagnosis is not an exact science, but is liable to a large percentage of error, according to the admissions of the leaders of the Medical Profession themselves.

We have abundant evidence to submit, supporting these statements, if we are permitted to do so.

We have been blamed for refusing to take the Medical Examination prescribed by the Amendment to the Medical Act of 1921.

We respectfully submit to your Honourable Body the following arguments why we should not be asked to submit to the control of the Medical Profession.

(1) We do not practise medicine. We do not perform surgical operations, nor do we prescribe drugs in any shape or form.

(2) Chiropractic is taught in no Medical School.

(3) We bring an entirely new viewpoint to the problem of disease. Though we use many of the same text books as the Medical Schools we study them from an entirely different angle. With the best intentions in the world Medical Examiners could not be expected to set fair examinations to Chiropractic Candidates.

(4) Leading Medical Doctors of this Province declared before your Select Committee that "the Chiropractic theory was all nonsense," and ascribed such cures as had been made by us to "Mental Suggestion," without having made any investigation into our methods whatsoever.

We respectfully submit that such an attitude is utterly unscientific, and that it is a gross injustice that we should be placed under the control of men holding opinions such as these.

We are prepared to demonstrate that mental suggestion plays no part whatsoever in the Chiropractic system of treatment.

We respectfully submit that the progress of Chiropractic is in itself substantial proof of the genuineness of the Science.

The first school was founded in 1898 without any monetary assistance in the way of foundations. To-day, twenty-five years later, 15,000 qualified Chiropractors are in practice. Twenty-four States of the Union have granted Chiropractic Boards such as we are asking you to grant us in this Province.

The standard of educational requirements has constantly risen till to-day, in those subjects, such as Anatomy, Physiology, Symptomatology, etc., that we study, and which are contained in the medical curriculum, the hours of study are equal to and often greater than is the case in the Medical Schools.

We submit that inasmuch as the Medical Profession have refused to recognize our theory and method of treatment, without investigation, provided we can show that our contention in practice is not only not a danger to the public, but of direct and definite benefit to the health of the people, it is a grave injustice that we should remain unrecognized and at the mercy of prosecution (three Chiropractors are now awaiting jail sentences) or else be forced under the control of a Profession with which we enter into direct economic competition.

All that we are asking of your Honourable Body is that you shall refer the consideration of our claims to a Select Committee of the House that shall examine all the evidence we have to submit and report back to you. Given a full and fair hearing we are content to stand or fall upon our merits.

Buy Eggs by Grade

CANADIAN standard grades for eggs intended for the export market have been in force for four years. The system has proved to be a great success in establishing confidence in the quality of Canadian eggs abroad. It will have a similar effect in establishing confidence in Canadian eggs at home.

The Government advocates standard grades for domestic consumption. Ask your grocer for graded eggs. To determine the quality of eggs, the dealer "candles" them, and puts them in the grade to which they belong. The Government has laid down specific definitions by which Canadian eggs are graded. In grading eggs, the following are the principal factors taken into consideration: Weight, size of air cell, firmness of white, and density of yolk.

Four Grades of Eggs

1. Specials Eggs grading as "Specials" are attractive in appearance when cooked alone or in combination with other foods, and give a delicious flavor to the prepared dish. These eggs are not found on the market at all seasons.

2. Extras Eggs grading as "Extras" are very satisfactory, giving good results when cooked alone, or in combination with other foods. These eggs can always be obtained and should prove very popular as the housewife can be sure of the results from this grade.

3. Firsts Good eggs, which may be scrambled, fried or used for any other cooking purpose, but not of the uniform quality of "specials" and "extras."

4. Seconds This grade consists of eggs which may be used for baking and dishes in which eggs are used in combination. This grade includes stale eggs and eggs with watery whites and heavy yolks.

HITLER PARTY IN BAVARIA GROWS

Reactionary and Anti-Semitic Movement Now Dangerous

Men Armed With Blackjacks; Rifles in Reserve

Special to The Times
Munich, Nov. 22.—Next to the high cost of living and the dollar, "Dr. Hitler" and his "Hakenkreuz" are the popular topic in Munich and other Bavarian towns. This reactionary, nationalistic, anti-Semitic movement has now reached a point where it is considered potentially dangerous, though not for the immediate future. Hitler to-day is taken seriously among all classes of Bavarians. He is feared by some, enthusiastically hailed as a prophet and political saviour by others, and watched with increasing sympathetic interest by the bulk of the population. He is merely biding his psychological moment to mount Hitler's band wagon. Undoubtedly the spectacular success of Mussolini and the Fascisti in Italy brought Hitler's movement to the fore and gained popular interest and sympathy for it. Another condition favorable to the growth of the movement is the widespread discontent with the existing state of affairs among all classes in the towns and cities under the increasing economic pressure.

Movement Urban
Hitler's "Hakenkreuz" movement is essentially urban in character. It has not yet caught a foothold among the hardy Bavarian peasantry and highlanders which would make it really dangerous. As a highly placed personage put it, "Hitler organized a small insignificant group of national Socialists two years ago, since when the movement has been smoldering beneath the surface. Now it is ready to burst forth in a conflagration, of course, is not only possible but certain if this new free flame of fanatical patriotism finds sufficient popular combustible material to feed on."

Hitler has been called the Bavarian Mussolini, and his followers the Bavarian Fascisti. There is nothing Socialist about the national Socialists he preaches. He has 30,000 organized followers in Munich alone. His total following throughout Bavaria is uncertain, but he is looked upon as a state of rapid flux. He is wasting no time working out political programmes, but devotes his whole energy to recruiting fresh forces and perfecting his organization.

Holds Meetings
"Hitler regrets he is unable to meet you as he is leaving town on important business for several days," was the answer received by correspondents. His important business was going to Regensburg with three special trainloads of Munich admirers for the purpose of holding a series of meetings, frequently descending from his stronghold, Munich, on other Bavarian towns with special trainloads of followers. He has the air of a religious gift at present, and is frequently descending from his stronghold, Munich, on other Bavarian towns with special trainloads of followers. black and tan, anti-Semitic Swastika cross in a white circular field on red, also with blackjacks and, it is popularly whispered, revolvers.

Rifles in Reserve
According to a reliable informant, there are probably 400,000 military rifles and 150 cannon still concealed in Bavaria, so that some day Hitler's legionaries may make their debut with rifles.

Hitler's strength is in the combination of his undeniably great gifts as an orator and organizer. He exerts an uncanny control over audiences.

Dispersed Crowd
An exhibition of Hitler's power was given during a mass meeting in Nuremberg, a stronghold of Bavarian Socialism. The radical elements massed outside the meeting hall and sang "The Internationale." The strains of the hated tune, heard in the hall, enraged the Hitler followers. At his word of command, shock troops of gray shirts with fine discipline marched from the hall, pulled their blackjacks, charged and dispersed the crowd with many a broken head.

Hitler is credited with having a rapidly increasing following among the workers, disgruntled by the cost of living. It is also said many ultra-radicals, including Communists, have flocked to his reactionary banner. He is beginning to draw support from the politically sluggish middle classes, which in Bavaria, however, are not so sluggish as in Berlin. Even more significant, there is some active support from the middle classes, which in Bavaria, however, are not so sluggish as in Berlin. Even more significant, there is some active support from the middle classes, which in Bavaria, however, are not so sluggish as in Berlin.

Clash Coming
The Hitler movement is not of more local or picturesque interest. It is bound to bring Bavaria into a renewed clash with the Berlin Government as long as the German Republic goes forward with its policy of living up to the Versailles Treaty. For it is certain the Allies will take umbrage of the Hitler organization as a violation of the military clauses of the treaty and demand disarmament, even as in the case of its predecessor, the Orzech.

Predicts Series of Earthquakes

COMMONS SEATING PLAN A PROBLEM
Contest Between British Laborites and Liberals

London, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Labor members of the House of Commons, who originally demanded the whole front Opposition benches, have reluctantly consented to yield six seats to the Liberal ex-Ministers and their whips, J. Ramsay MacDonald, Parliamentary Labor Leader, and J. R. Clynes, Deputy Labor Leader, insist upon occupying the favored seats immediately opposite the dispatch boxes on the table, from which point the recognized leader of the Opposition has always addressed the House.

First Come, First Served
The squabble for seats in the House of Commons has extended to the occupancy of other benches which the Laborites wish to take over. They maintain that the Laborites have a right to sit always immediately beside their leader, while the Liberals insist upon sitting where they please on the Opposition side of the House. The point will be settled on the principle of "first come, first served."

AMERICANS COMMENT ON CLEMENCEAU'S PLEA

New York, Nov. 23.—A special dispatch from Washington to The Tribune says to-day that pro-League Democrats joined irreconcilable Republicans in attacking the plea of Georges Clemenceau. "His picture of a new war with Germany, Russia and Turkey allied against the Entente caused no cold shudders in official Washington," the dispatch says. "His address in New York Tuesday was probably read more closely than any public utterance by a Frenchman for some time past and was the subject of comment everywhere in Washington, but if there were any here who were so moved that they wanted this country to yield to his plea, they were well concealed."

FRENCH AND BELGIAN PREMIERS CONFER ON BRUSSELS CONFERENCE

Paris, Nov. 23.—Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Jaspard of Belgium to-day conferred with Premier Poincare as to the projected conference at Brussels for the consideration of reparations and war debts. The Belgian Government is, chiefly concerned in not holding the conference unless a reasonable degree of success seems probable. The French Government is anxious for holding it, but wishes to have everything done in advance necessary to assure practical results. Both Governments would like to know something more as to the participation of the United States.

TO-DAY'S TRADING IN WINNIPEG MARKETS

Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—The market, after opening at lower prices following weak cables, was erratic during the session and was under pressure near the close. After opening 1/2 to 1 cent lower, the November position acted stubbornly, registering a slight gain and later dropping back. Both November and December futures were under considerable pressure and relatively weaker than the May, with November maintaining a premium over May, local exporters having been re-selling and taking profits rather than holding grain in storage over the winter months.

SILVER COAT HAS AN ADVENTURE

Part II.
Mr. Field Mouse crept out of the stone wall ahead of Silver Coat and down to the ground. "Come along," he whispered, and very much scared Silver Coat obeyed, keeping close to the stone wall and very close to his cousin.

"Now we have to take a bit of a chance," said Field Mouse, "for there we must cross the road and the moon is very bright. If Mr. Owl happens to spy us run under a bush and stay there until I come for you. Run now." Silver Coat had never had much chance to run fast, but he kept up with Field Mouse and went under the bush on the other side of the road at the same time his cousin did.

"You are a good runner," said Field Mouse. "I thought you house mice did not have much running to do."

"I guess we have to run from puss," said Silver Coat as they ran through the grass. "She has claws and sharp teeth. And then we have traps. But of course they do not chase you, but we always run away from them just the same."

ORIENTAL CONTROL OF MARKET PRODUCE ALMOST COMPLETE

Barrow Warns Against Yellow Peril in Agriculture; Quotes Land Holdings

Canon Hinchliffe Tells of Labor Desire to Take Asiatics Into Unions

Figures showing the extent of the penetration of Japanese and Chinese in the fruit, vegetable and general market gardening industry in British Columbia were given the Legislature yesterday by Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, in the debate on Capt. Ian Mackenzie's resolution calling for amendment to the B.N.A. Act to give the Province power to control Oriental ownership of lands for other natural resources and employment in industries connected with them.

Ninety per cent of the local produce furnished in the city of Vancouver is supplied by Orientals and 55 per cent of the potatoes of the Province are produced by Orientals, Mr. Barrow said.

To present the seriousness of the menace, Mr. Barrow quoted figures which he said were collected two years ago by the Department of Agriculture in its survey of the yellow peril. This survey showed that there were 14,950 acres of agricultural land owned by Japanese and Chinese and 12,868 acres leased by them.

"That was the condition two years ago and we are satisfied that that acreage held by Orientals has been increased since that time," Mr. Barrow said.

At the time of the survey, out of the 4,500 acres in the Province devoted to small fruits, the Japanese held 2,341 acres, or more than 50 per cent. He declared that this added to the problem of the berry-growers in connection with economical marketing on the Prairies. For truck farming the Chinese own 1,832 acres and lease 3,184 acres; the Japanese own 231 acres and lease 560 acres, a total of 10,657 acres, Mr. Barrow said.

Effect on Organization.
"This is the time to take a definite stand to prevent Orientals from acquiring any more of our farm lands," Mr. Barrow went on. "It is now practically impossible to buy any produce not grown by Orientals. If the Oriental were not producing our vegetables the white man would be the same method is to enact legislation to prevent them from acquiring more than they have."

Mr. Barrow pointed out that the greater proportion of the hothouses near Victoria were owned or run by Orientals and they were aggressive on the north side of the Fraser in the berry districts. There was concern for fear some of them would indirectly happen to get some of the rich Sumas lands being developed by the Government.

There are no Orientals coming in to Chilliwack, however, Mr. Barrow said, as in that district the community spirit is too strong against them. There is no real estate firm in the district that would dare to sell land to Orientals. But there is fear that some of the fertile alluvial lands nearby, which are held in big blocks, might pass into the hands of Orientals.

The Six Reasons.
Canon Hinchliffe, Conservative

member for Victoria, said that if this anti-Oriental were the most important to come before the House at this session, it was deserving of exceeding great credit. The way it was prepared, he pointed out, that six reasons were given set forth for asking for the B. N. A. Act amendment, but Capt. Mackenzie had given no explanation of these reasons.

The Canon recalled how the laboring man, finding himself face to face with Oriental competition, experienced his cries being neglected until other classes in the community were brought into contact with similar competition and then began to take an interest.

He told how three or four months ago he attended a labor meeting in Victoria where a resolution was passed expressing the opinion that the exclusion of Chinese would not solve the labor problem in B.C. but that the proper plan was to admit Chinese into labor unions so that they would not underbid white men in the labor market. According to the Canon, he was not advocating this himself, but mentioned it to show that there were other opinions as to dealing with the problem.

The Canon also pointed to the presence of split infinitives, which he thought out of place in this most important resolution, and criticized in general the way it had been drawn up. He said that it set out that it was imperative and essential that certain things should be done, but Capt. Mackenzie had come forward with no reasons or explanations.

"I should like to know before I vote on this resolution exactly what it means," the Canon concluded.

Fred Anderson, Liberal member for Kamloops, adjourned the debate.

FARMERS FORCED TO SELL BEEF AT HALF CENT POUND

Farmers are so up against it in Northern Alberta at the present time that within the last two weeks they have been selling beef on the hoof at one-half cent a pound, according to W. Piccard of Calgary, formerly of Comox, who is at the Parliament Buildings conferring with members. In Calgary last week, retail butchers were selling thirty pounds of beef for one dollar, Mr. Piccard said. Just before coming to the Coast he attended a farm sale at La Crosse, half way between Calgary and Edmonton, where prime milking cows which usually sell from $75 to $100 were sold for $7 and $8 each.

Business in Calgary is quieter than it has ever been, Mr. Piccard said. Conditions in the British Columbia cattle cities are booming in comparison, he declared.

Farmers largely blame the new United States tariff which shuts their cattle out of the American market for the collapse in prices of livestock, he added.

MENZIES TO BRING FARM MEN UNDER COMPENSATION ACT

Amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act to bring farm laborers under the act is being brought into the Legislature by the Rev. Thomas Menzies, M.P.P., for Comox.

Mr. Menzies' amendment was on the order paper for consideration first thing when the House assembled yesterday afternoon. When it was called he said he would leave it over for a day or so as he feared it would be declared out of order by the Speaker "as nearly all amendments are from this quarter of the House."

In view of the fact that the Attorney-General had signified his intention of bringing in other amendments to the act later on, he said he would introduce his plan when the bill was in committee. By bringing in such an amendment at this time he feared he might be anticipating Government policy.

COWICHAN BILL HALTED; SPEAKER TO DECIDE STATUS
Kenneth Duncan, member for Cowichan, introduced his bill in the Legislature yesterday to ratify and confirm the agreement of Nov. 15, 1922, between the City of Duncan, Corporation of North Cowichan and the Duncan City School Board. The bill was given its first reading and then it was discovered that it had not been decided whether the measure was a public or private bill. It was put up to Speaker Pauline to decide this before it comes up for second reading.

This agreement is a result of the consolidation of the two municipalities for school purposes, and under it the whole of the rural municipality was taken over. The results have borne out that contention that the district thus formed would be cumbersome and the City of Duncan and the Municipality of North Cowichan and the consolidated boards of trustees have reduced the area to a convenient size.

Mr. Duncan said the bill was a public measure as it affected more than one municipality.

MONTHLY REPORT OF S.P.C.A.
Several interesting matters were discussed by the committee of the S.P.C.A. at a recent meeting, but as the annual meeting is to be held shortly, the full description of the work will be given on that occasion. The inspector's report dealt with the following cases: Horses 10, ducks 2, dogs 4, cows 3, cats 5, sheep 1, goat 1, chickens 1, sundry 1, poem 4, cases in court 1, convictions 1.

The brevity of this report is no sense describes the work done or the ground covered by the inspector in following out his duties. Some 300 miles have been covered by this officer, chiefly on a bicycle.

AMERICAN FRUIT NOT TO BLAME FOR PRICE COLLAPSE

For Simple Reason Only Ten Cars of Early Variety Crossed Line, Barrow Says

New Protective Measure Is Now in Effect; More Severe Than Anti-Dumping Clause

Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, proposed in the Legislature last night amendment to the motion of Col. Fred. Lister, of Kaslo, calling on the Dominion Government to re-enact the anti-dumping legislation in order to protect the Prairie markets for British Columbia fruitgrowers, by moving that the whole question be referred to the select committee of the House on agriculture where it could be discussed fully and something definite determined.

Mr. Barrow declared that the new power placed in the hands of Hon. Jacques Bureau was greater than that involved in the former anti-dumping clause under which it was necessary to get information as to the cost of production and then add to that a reasonable profit as the basis for invoking the measure. But under the new arrangement protection could be afforded simply on the say-so of the Minister, who is given the power to say what he thought was necessary for the protection of the industry.

Mr. Barrow quoted from Hansard, where Mr. McElgin criticized placing so much power in the hands of any one Minister, and referred to it as protection personified.

The Primary Interest.
Mr. Barrow pointed out that under the new arrangement the interest of the Canadian producer was the primary interest to be considered. "You can't get any stronger measure of protection than that," Mr. Barrow went on.

He declared that it was the only practical way in which the situation could be effectively dealt with, declaring that as far as fixing costs of production, it was just as difficult to fix the cost of producing a box of apples as it was to fix the cost of a pound of butter fat. In this connection he referred to the survey carried out by the University of British Columbia experts to determine the cost of a pound of butter fat, and their figures ran from 50c to $2.50 a pound, with an average of $1.40, and yet in the face of this the annual statement of the Fraser Valley dairymen showed that the average price paid producers for butter fat was 65c a pound.

Mr. Barrow claimed that more protection was afforded the fruit industry under the new provision than under the old, and that experience had shown that the Minister had not hesitated to act when it was represented to him that conditions warranted him doing so.

American Competition.
As for the assertion of Col. Lister that 724 cars of American fruit had come in through King's Gate alone, Mr. Barrow said that the returns showed only ten cars so entering and these were of early variety apples which reached the prairies before the Okanagan apples came on and were not a factor in producing the conditions of which the Okanagan growers complained.

Mr. Barrow pointed out that 300 carloads of apples had been sent this year from British Columbia to New York and the returns from the sale of these apples had been better than the returns from any other place to which apples had been shipped.

He also pointed out that the standard duty on apples from the American side into Canada was greater than the duty on apples from the Canadian side into the United States. The Minister quoted from statements made between November 12 and 14 by apple marketing experts who, after investigating the whole situation, announced that they had come to the conclusion that the cause for conditions in the apple market was to be found in the growers themselves and that it seemed necessary that growers should go through chaotic conditions such as the present one, and they should combine for the marketing of their crop and have some control over prices. Apples shipped on consignment to Chinese retailers on the prairies had not shown satisfactory returns, as the Chinese sold first the apples they had bought outright and left the consignments apples to the last.

Insufficient Distribution.
"It is not a matter of over-production but of inefficient distribution," Mr. Barrow said. "Apple marketing must be spread over wider points than the prairies. By shipping to foreign markets the consigns on prairie markets will be relieved."

In reply to a question from Kenneth Duncan, member for Cowichan, Mr. Barrow said that the new regulations against American fruit coming in were brought into effect on June 28 and all that got in were some peaches which crossed the line before the Minister of Customs was made acquainted with the situation.

W. A. McKennie, Conservative member for Similkameen, adjourned the debate.
